Central Office Renovation is Complete!

After more than a year of construction, the renovations at the Central Office are finally completed and everyone is back in their rightful place! Volunteer leaders, Central Office staff and other guests gathered on August 7 in Oxford to attend the ribbon cutting and tour the new building. Grand President Mark Chiacchiarri, Pennsylvania; Past Grand President Mitch Simmons, Southern Mississippi; and Executive Director Bill Schilling, Nebraska-Lincoln, offered remarks to commemorate the occasion. Guests were able to see the new wheel chair ramp and elevator, newly remodeled offices, a new boardroom and library, and new donor recognition and archive displays, among other renovations.

The renovations were enhanced by the help of generous alumni and many more through special gifts and engraved brick purchases -- we thank you! The new office will better serve the needs of our brothers and will inspire pride in every member.

Enjoy the photos here, and visit www.dspnet.org for a photo story covering the project from beginning to end. Or come visit your headquarters next time you are in the Greater Cincinnati area. ▲

2009 National COY Burton Bridges signs the guest book in the main entryway of the Central Office as Hannah Hoes, St. Thomas, and North Central PVP Amy Briggs await their turn.

2010 National Volunteer Leadership Retreat attendees gather on the front lawn after the ribbon cutting ceremony. The Retreat, held in downtown Cincinnati, was attended by nearly 80 current and prospective volunteers from across the country. Attendees participated in two days of extensive and targeted leadership training to better enhance their skills and knowledge of Delta Sigma Pi.

Golden Council Member Onuka Ibe checks out the engraved bricks in the courtyard. Deltasig members and friends are still able to purchase bricks to honor members, chapters and more.

Past and present board members sit at the table in the impressive new boardroom. New display cases for archive items were built around the boardroom and photos of Past Grand Presidents hang on the wall.

Midwestern RVP Henry and Kris McDaniel, Central Missouri, look at the new map of all Deltasig chapters. Numbers on the pins represent each chapter.

Central Office Renovation is a Long-Term Investment

The first time I saw the Central Office was in April 1985, when I interviewed to become a chapter consultant. After working there for the next two years, I appreciated much about the building that has served as our national headquarters since 1956. I also understood some of the issues with the building, such as the dank rooms in the basement and the flooding issues that occasionally confronted the staff.

Fast forward to 2005, when I was elected Grand President: little had changed, other than paint and wallpaper. Board meetings were held in that same uncomfortable room in the basement that we called the boardroom and we still had the flooding issues. In addition, with the changes in technology since I worked there twenty years earlier, a vast array of wires and conduits ran all around the building. New problems had also surfaced. The restrooms, which had not been updated since 1956, were starting to show their age and all entrances to the buildings required the use of stairs.

elevator. In January 2009, after two years of discussion and planning, the Board of Directors approved the final plan and budget for the renovation. Construction began in May 2009.

On August 7, 2010, a dedication celebration and ribbon-cutting ceremony was held at the “new” Central Office. In addition to members of the Board of Directors, numerous past and present Fraternity leaders and staff attended, including Past Grand Presidents William W. Tatum, Jr. and Kathleen M. Jahnke, and former Executive Director Michael J. Mazur, Jr.

The “new” Central Office demonstrates the pride we all have in our Fraternity. It is now a modern office, fitting of the service provided to us by our outstanding staff. It is a meeting facility for Fraternity leaders with a completely redesigned and updated boardroom. We provided space for the Delta Sigma Pi Leadership Foundation to recognize significant donors with a new donor recognition display in the new second floor library.

As I stated during the ribbon-cutting ceremony, I am incredibly proud of the improvements to this facility. We have an office that will prove useful to our staff for many, many years and a destination-quality archive building for our brothers. I am deeply grateful for having had a Board of Directors that recognized the opportunity we had, as well as understanding the value in making this long-term investment. I hope that you all are as satisfied with what we have done as I am. This is now your new Central Office. May it long serve you, to further the aims and ideals of Delta Sigma Pi!

Fraternally,

Mitchell B. Simmons
Grand President 2005-2009

And, foremost, it is a monument and archive to Delta Sigma Pi's rich history, with much more display space for important Fraternity artifacts.

“Fraternal Forum” allows elected leaders, staff, and interested members to offer updates, viewpoints and commentaries on issues facing the Fraternity. Contact the Central Office if you have an interest in contributing a column. Final determination of content rests with the editorial staff.

From Arms to Coat of Arms

Brother Joe Winslow, Southern Methodist, added his personal touch to the Central Office renovation by designing and creating interior and exterior artistic coats of arms and the new donor and recognition displays, donated by Barrett and Kimberly Carter, Georgia State/Clemson. Winslow especially enjoyed working on the project for Deltasig because he is "still close to many of my brothers, and the foundation that the Fraternity gave me can never be replaced." The project also allowed him to use many different mediums and applications for the same subject matter, which was a change from previous projects.

Joe Winslow, Southern Methodist, displays some tools used to create his design projects.

When creating the interior wooden coat of arms, Winslow first spent several weeks sculpting a model to be used with his three-dimensional cutting equipment. When Winslow first started his business, everything was done by hand, but he now uses a virtual sculpting program. Once the piece was cut, he sanded by hand, carved out the small details, then primed and hand painted it to finish. Winslow says that a finished piece, such as the coat of arms, has been touched or manipulated about 800 times.

The exterior coat of arms is a cast bronze piece and was produced in a foundry, a factory that produces metal castings. It was then hand buffed to a high shine and Winslow applied a patina, or dark stain, to the face and low points of the casting to make the elements "pop" out.

For the donor recognition, each portion of the boards were sanded and stained by hand. The name plates were also cut by hand and then individually placed and applied. Winslow believes each piece of the "donor wall" was touched at least 3,200 times to reach their final stage.

Winslow says his design business, Regimental Signs (www.regimentalsigns.com), was born from the 9/11 bombings. When the United States entered the war, he was serving as a Captain in the Marine Corps Reserve and he volunteered for combat service. At the time, he was working for Merrill Lynch, but left to serve his country. When Winslow returned, he dove into building a small business. Winslow says "combat, and the things you experience while in it, have a way of making you focus in on what's important to you. In my case, my thoughts kept returning to how I was most happy creating artwork and working with people to achieve something visual and impressive – so I vowed to pursue that when I returned home."

It wasn't long after Brother Winslow started his business that the White House commissioned him to provide the Presidential coat of arms for the new Situation Room. Additionally, he created a series of large blue ovals for some classified spaces in the building. Business has grown substantially since then and the company now provides this type of work to many federal and military clients across the United States and the world. It is also in the process of building a gift and commemorative line which has seen some success and growth this year.

Another one of Winslow's favorite projects to create was the coat of arms he created for the Bishop of the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. He takes pride in knowing that everyone who visits the Cathedral from around the world will see his work.

Being a small-business owner, Winslow is directly challenged by the current economy, but last year was the best year for his business and he expects this year to be even better. He attributes this to the effort he puts in; for the past 24 months, he has actively pursued accounts and established relationships.

For other Deltasigs, Winslow says "Decide on your objective, determine the path from here to there, and get on with it – today!" He believes it is always better to have a good plan which is aggressively executed rather than have a great plan which is never executed. He also believes "there is no stopping a Deltasig with comrades like ours because you are arm-in-arm with brothers trying to do the same thing." ▲

Chapter Management Program Recognition

The Chapter Management Program (CMP), which replaced the Chapter Efficiency Index (CEI) July 1, 2009, is divided into three achievement levels: Accredited Chapter, Chapter of Recognition and Chapter of Excellence. The CMP allows national leaders and staff to evaluate chapter operations and activities. Chapters are required to submit items to the National Fraternity to achieve each level and are expected to reach the Accredited Chapter level which includes the minimum standards for every collegiate chapter. If all requirements for Accredited Chapter are completed, the chapter may try to achieve the second level, Chapter of Recognition, and then the third level, Chapter of Excellence.

Congratulations to the 39 chapters that reached Chapter of Excellence, 63 chapters reaching Chapter of Recognition and 99 that earned the Accredited Chapter!

EXCELLENCE

A Chapter of Excellence is a chapter that is operationally sound with a well-rounded program that focuses on larger scale events and national Fraternity promotion. To earn Chapter of Excellence, a chapter must achieve the Accredited Chapter tier, the Chapter of Recognition tier and complete the required and optional items for the third tier.

A Chapter of Recognition is a chapter that is operationally sound with a well-rounded program that focuses on alumni, faculty, and new brothers. To earn Chapter of Recognition, a chapter must achieve the Accredited Chapter tier and complete the required and optional items for the second tier. All chapters listed under Chapter of Excellence also achieved this level.

Jeff Briggs Finds His Niche in the University World

Jeff Briggs, Miami-Ohio, can offer insight into the finance world and its different sectors; he first started in a corporate setting and then changed to a university setting. Briggs started his career at Ernst & Young in Cincinnati, where he worked for 10 years in the audit practice. He then took a position as controller at the College of Mount St. Joseph in Cincinnati in 2004, which led to his love of the campus environment. In February, Briggs started as controller at Xavier, also in Cincinnati, where he serves as the chief accountant for the university. All accounts payable, payroll, general ledger, billing and collections report through his office and he is responsible for the preparation of the annual financial statements of the University.

Briggs says there are differences between the corporate and university settings and he has found working in university administration very rewarding. Working in a corporate setting brings a unity of focus among employees around a purpose, while working in a university or mission-based organization places emphasis on achieving the mission. For example, as a member of the audit staff at Ernst & Young, all his work was very project driven with clearly defined objectives. Most of the people Briggs interacted with at Ernst & Young were business professionals, and finance was always at the top of everyone's mind.

In contrast, a different sense of community exists at most colleges and universities, most likely due to the common desire to help students achieve. Typically, business professionals are in the minority at mission-based organizations and Briggs spends more time educating others and relating how and why finance can help achieve the mission.

Having only been at Xavier for a short time, Briggs is still learning his position. The growth of the university is bringing new challenges and making old answers to existing problems obsolete. "Adapting to the new 'normal' will be a balancing act of new efforts while re-thinking the old standard practices," he says.

But Briggs loves to solve problems and says there are always areas in accounting to improve efficiencies, avoid mistakes or implement new ways to do things. He has found talking with people and learning from others within the organization almost always yields a better way to solve problems. He says it takes extra time to build bridges outside of the accounting and finance areas, but the relationships are worth the effort.

He thanks his wife Judith Jaspers Briggs, South Dakota, for her support and says they may not have met without their Deltasig connection. They attended different schools, but the two met through the Cincinnati Alumni Chapter after she accepted a chapter consultant position at the Central Office in 1994. Now, he believes one of their biggest accomplishments was raising two small children while he earned his MBA from Ohio State.

Delta Sigma Pi gave Briggs the network of supportive friends and colleagues that is necessary when taking risks. He also believes the Fraternity gave him confidence to try new things and explore his interests. Attending regional and national Fraternity conferences allowed him to test presenting and networking skills and to gain business expertise. "Success in this relatively safe arena builds confidence in your abilities," he says. As a collegiate who struggled with presentations and confidence, the community of brothers was critical to Briggs' development. ▲

Bryan McMillan, Johns Hopkins, received his alma mater's "Outstanding Recent Graduate Award" in 2009 for his outstanding volunteerism, which includes two terms on the Johns Hopkins Alumni Council and an additional term as chair of the Johns Hopkins Carey Business School Dean's Alumni Advisory Board.

"The volunteer bug kicked in when I was a collegiate," says McMillan, who is now Import/Export Manager of Business Operations—International Systems for Northrop Grumman. "I firmly believe I wouldn't be where I am in my career if not for two organizations," says McMillan. One is Delta Sigma Pi and the other is Johns Hopkins. The busy brother has also served as a Leadership Foundation Trustee and Host Chair of the last two GCC's!

Outside of his career and Hopkins activities, Brother McMillan still finds time to volunteer with American Cancer Society and Lance Armstrong Foundation's annual cycling marathon to raise funds for the Live Strong Foundation, Ulman Cancer Fund for Young Adults, and Johns Hopkins Medicine. Brother McMillan, who lost his best friend to cancer last March, organized 41 riders for the 24 Hour Booty event. The team raised more than $30,000 and received the 2010 Top Fundraising Team Award.

Bryan McMillan, Johns Hopkins, finds time in his busy schedule to give back to the community.

"There is a sense of community and strength at 24 Hours of Booty, but most of all a celebration of life and hope. You look around at the bibs of your fellow riders and see the names of loved ones they ride for; it's humbling," says McMillan. ▲

Brothers toured Freeport-McMoRan's Sierrita Mine, where they were given a presentation on the site's operations and company procedures. After the tour was a question and answer session with a human resources representative, site accountant and supply chain personnel.

Cal State-Fullerton/Lambda Sigma

Brothers hosted Dell Account Executive Joel Mjolsness, Cal State-Fullerton, as part of a "Modern Business Etiquette" event in July. Mjolsness shared his views on life, work and balancing the two during a question and answer session. VPCO Bradley Shammass said "his wisdom was evident through his great stories and his answers to the many questions asked by the chapter." Brothers were left with a stronger sense of business etiquette and its applications in the business world.
—Bradley Shammass

California-Davis/Nu Rho

Brothers hosted their annual etiquette dinner to thank their sponsors and to promote Delta Sigma Pi on campus. A guest was invited to speak about the importance of business etiquette during an interview over a meal. The chapter also held a career fair before the event to learn about various internships and job offers.
—Stanley Ng

Cal Poly-Pomona/Eta Chi

Brothers volunteered in July to aid Habitat for Humanity in a garage-sale type community service event. Habitat for Humanity is known globally for being a housing organization that provides simple, decent, affordable housing in partnership with people in need. The main goal of this community service event was to raise funds for the organization as well as to offer cheap and/or used household products for the local community. The event taught brothers teamwork skills and provided an opportunity to grow their sales and service experience in addition to having fun at the same time.
—Patrick Bonfrisco

DePaul/Alpha Omega

Recent graduate Adam Jamal spoke to brothers about his new company, Shirtopia, and shared his experiences as an entrepreneur, the business model and his future marketing plans. The company makes and designs custom screen-printed clothing. For every shirt sold, they donate a shirt to an organization for women in Africa.

—Julie Sekinger

Hawaii-Hilo/Lambda Psi

The chapter had a busy schedule of events planned for this semester. They traveled to the other side of the island in October for a social event and have continued to diligently recruit new brothers. In addition, the chapter hosted business roundtables where local businessmen shared ideas and insight with the College of Business and Economics students. Brothers also look forward to assisting a new colony forming at Hawaii-Manoa as they seek to meet the requirements to become the second collegiate chapter in Hawaii.

We also welcome new Chapter Advisor Terrence Jalbert, Hawaii-Hilo. Dr. Jalbert brings a wealth of teaching experience as well as past service as Chapter Advisor. Many thanks to outgoing Chapter Advisor Hank Hennessey, Nebraska-Lincoln. Dr. Hennessey has served for several years, guiding the chapter in recruiting, ritual and numerous chapter events.
—Glen Mason

North Carolina-Chapel Hill/Alpha Lambda

In 2005, brothers at North Carolina started sponsoring young women's secondary school education in Zanzibar, Tanzania, and partnered with Students for Students International (S4Si), a UNC nonprofit organization dedicated to providing educational opportunities for students in the developing world.

In January 2010, the chapter's first scholarship recipient, Ramla, graduated from Zanzibar Commercial Secondary School, Zanzibar's top secondary school in the fields of business and commerce. Ramla aspires to be an economist and hopes to gain acceptance into a university. Without the chapter's support, she would not have been able to become part of the less than 5% of Tanzanian youth that graduate from secondary school.

This summer, a student delegation from S4Si traveled to Zanzibar to select the chapter's fifth scholarship recipient. We plan to continue funding one scholar every year by holding fundraisers such as the Annual Dollars for Scholars Golf Tournament. The scholarship provides funds for a young woman to attend four years of secondary school, which includes transportation, lunch, uniform,

Brothers hosted a campus-wide talk on basic poker strategy and a few advanced tactics for playing the game. Professor McClendon also gave strategies for other games including Monopoly, Risk and several types of poker. —Daniel Omondi

San Diego State/Iota Pi

After hosting a professional event with Target's campus liaison about "How to Impress a Recruiter," our chapter brothers did just that. Four of the nine students selected as Target Executive Interns in San Diego County were brothers. As a result of the connections made, another brother of Iota Pi was offered a full-time executive position at Target after graduation. —Patrick Bonfrisco

Tennessee/Alpha Zeta

The chapter hosted a Battle of the Bands, featuring five local acts at the Tin Roof, an establishment near campus. The bands performed a short 25-minute set of songs and the audience was able to vote. A celebrity judge and local radio host were also present. Each vote was sold for $1 and raffle tickets were also sold for $1 each. Brothers raised $285 and half of the proceeds were donated to the Ronald McDonald House and the other half will help fund chapter expenses for the semester. —James Buck

Xavier/Theta Lambda

Brothers hosted Matthew Swendiman, Chief Administrative Officer at Fifth Third Bank, in September. He shared several lessons to live by that he has discovered working for Fifth Third and several other Fortune 500 companies. His advice included the four rules for business. First, step outside your comfort zone – go somewhere you have never been because youth will be the only time you have the opportunity to do so. Second, don't be a jerk – things tend to revolve and if you are a jerk it may come back to hurt you later in your career. Next, network constantly – always network and build a network that you would like to maintain. Last, no matter what your obstacles are, you can overcome them. Over 50 guests enjoyed listening to Swendiman's advice. —Taylor Gastingier

Brothers and Friends of Delta Sigma Pi,

We are still seeing the economy remain in a fragile state. Unemployment remains high and will likely remain at this level for the next year. In fact, it is expected to climb over the next several months. It is reasonable to assume that until the unemployment rate drops we are going to continue to see uncertainty in the market. The good news for all our brothers is the unemployment rate for college graduates is less than half the overall average.

Despite the economic conditions, the Leadership Foundation remains very strong by controlling expenses and taking a conservative approach to budgeting. Many non-profit organizations have seen a significant reduction in donations. Although we have not rebounded to the level of donations we were experiencing a few years ago, we have achieved some very positive results this year and have outperformed other organizations. We had an approximate 23% increase in total gifts this fiscal year as compared to last and our donor base was the largest yet with 1,600 donors. In addition, we saw a 10% increase in our investment funds from the previous year.

These results are a testament to the dedication of our donors – thank you. The support you give now -- and in the future -- ensures the tradition of our brotherhood will continue for countless generations. We realize this economy has been difficult on many brothers and want you to know that every donation is greatly appreciated! We also realize there are many brothers who have interest in donating their time to the Foundation and we are always excited to have new volunteers join the efforts. Please feel free to contact any of the Trustees to learn more about volunteer opportunities.

We are very excited about the future of the Foundation and the introduction of some new programs. A few were introduced at the fall LEAD schools, while others will be introduced in preparation of Grand Chapter Congress in August. We are also working with the Fraternity's national leadership team to increase our members' knowledge and understanding of the Leadership Foundation. I recently came across a quote that resonated with me as I considered our approach to fundraising: "It is well to give when asked, but it is better to give unasked, through understanding." Therefore, the Trustees will attend national events to provide information to all Deltasigs about the purpose and mission of the Leadership Foundation. I encourage each of you to proactively expand your understanding of the Leadership Foundation so we may work toward supporting our brotherhood.

Additionally, one of our key means for supporting our fellow brothers is our scholarship program. I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate all of our 2009-10 scholarship recipients. These students have demonstrated scholastic ability, leadership and dedication to the Fraternity. We see a significant number of worthy applicants each year and are striving to be in a financial situation to award each applicant a scholarship. In order to accomplish this goal, we will need your support in raising funds for existing scholarships as well as endowing new scholarship funds. This currently is one of the key areas of focus for the Leadership Foundation.

I have enjoyed serving as a Trustee for the last 6 years and I am looking forward to serving my second year as your Chairman and President. I am passionate about the work of the Leadership Foundation and continue to look for ways to improve our efforts to support all of our brothers. I look forward to seeing everyone during the next year.

Fraternally,

Greg J. Koch
Chairman and President

10K Club Members

As of 6/11/10

The Leadership Foundation Board of Trustees developed the 10K Club to better secure the next 100 years of Delta Sigma Pi. Individuals giving at least $10,000 in unrestricted gifts to the Leadership Foundation between July 1, 2003 and June 30, 2012 will earn membership. All gifts that counted toward the 2007 Centennial Society also count toward becoming a member of the 10K Club. Those who joined at or before the 2007 Centennial Grand Chapter Congress are known as 10K Club Centennial Founders (noted with ©) and received special benefits. Those joining now are known as 10K Club Members. Where Do Your Annual Fund Donations Go?

Donating to the Delta Sigma Pi Leadership Foundation Annual Fund – the cornerstone of giving to the Foundation – is a great way to support the many educational and leadership programs provided for undergraduate and alumni members. The Board of Trustees approves educational programming grants every year to further expand and support vital programs like LEAD, LeaderShape®, Collegian of the Year (COY), Grand Chapter Congress, Educational and Leadership Consultant program, chapter scholarship keys and more.

Each year the Fraternity must submit a written grant request for educational programming to be considered and approved by the Leadership Foundation Board of Trustees. These much needed funds help ensure that quality educational opportunities for our undergraduate and alumni members will continue to be provided at a lower cost to them. Annual Fund contributions are instrumental for the Leadership Foundation to provide this annual support to the Fraternity, and directly support the Leadership Foundation's mission statement.

Here is a breakdown of educational programming grants paid during the 2009-10 fiscal year:

The Leadership Foundation also directly awards regional, provincial and national COY scholarships to recipients; and directly supported an additional grant for 2009 GCC with a gift of $26,000 to the Smithsonian Air and Space Museum.

Living Legacy Society (as of 8/25/10)

The Living Legacy Society is a planned giving program recognizing those investing in Deltasig's future in a special way. Through their planned gifts, these individuals help ensure a Delta Sigma Pi legacy of future generations of business leaders. You can join the Living Legacy Society by making a provision in your will or trust, or by naming the Leadership Foundation as a life insurance beneficiary. The Leadership Foundation salutes the following who have made a special investment in the future by joining the Living Legacy Society. In the case of those brothers marked as deceased, the Foundation already has received a bequest.

Endowed/Named Funds for Educational Scholarships and Grants (As of July 2010)

A gift to establish a named/endowment fund demonstrates your farsighted commitment to the development of future business leaders. An endowment fund is maintained in perpetuity, with a portion of the annual investment return to be used for the charitable purposes you specify. Such an endowment, which typically bears the name of the donor or donors, reflects your interests and serves as an enduring testament to your generosity.

A minimum initial gift of $2,000 is required to start a fund. The fund is permanently endowed when at least $20,000 has been contributed within six years.* The fund then begins to generate annual scholarships and/or grants.

A fund may be designated to provide scholarships for members from a particular chapter or group of chapters or based on other criteria. Similarly, a fund may be designated to generate grants for an educational program that has special meaning to the donor.

A Gift Agreement between the donor and the Leadership Foundation sets forth the purpose of the fund and how scholarships or grants will be distributed.

For more details, or to start a named/endowed fund, contact the Leadership Foundation at foundation@dspnet.org or 513-523-1907 x237.

Chris Sweet Participates in VoluntEARS

Atlantic Coast RVP Chris Sweet, Central Florida, received a $1,000 grant from Disney's VoluntEARS Program, which he donated to the Leadership Foundation. The Walt Disney Company established the Disney's VoluntEARS Program to provide opportunities for Cast Members and Imagineers to volunteer their personal time to the community.

Employees may apply for an "Ears to You Grant" of up to $1,000 toward an eligible non-profit of their choice. The grant is based on the number of volunteer service hours performed by an individual during the given calendar year. During 2009, Sweet logged over 100 hours of service through VoluntEARS. The majority of his hours were performed through service as the Atlantic Coast RVP and as a volunteer leader for his son's Cub Scout Pack. We thank him for his generous donation and support of the Fraternity and Leadership Foundation. ▲

Double Your $!

Over 9,000 corporations and businesses in the United States recognize the need and provide support for scholarship and education through individual matching gift programs. Gifts are often matched at a dollar-for-dollar rate; however, some companies offer programs which double, triple and in some cases quadruple gifts. Check with your company's human resources department for more information and contact the Delta Sigma Pi Leadership Foundation to get your matching gifts underway.

Climbing Mountains to

"This world is changed by men and women of passion." - Lori Saviers

Lori Saviers, Akron, became interested in climbing when her friend Margaret Kurko White, Akron, moved to Mount Shasta, Calif., the home of the most beautiful of the dormant volcanoes of the Cascade Range. Saviers mentioned she wanted to try climbing and with White's encouragement, she began her mountain climbing adventures by reading books and learning about the sport. In September 2003, she made her first attempt to climb Mount Shasta, but only made it to 10,500 feet (the mountain is 14,201 feet). While many would quit at this point, Saviers did not. "I had a desire to stretch and grow and do something a bit, well, outlandish - something unequivocal," she says. After that trip, Saviers returned home and took several mountaineering classes, talked to people with experience, practiced and trained.

She credits this perseverance to Deltasig. The most important lesson she learned from her membership was never be afraid to try. In college, she led meetings, groups and committees, team raising awareness and funds for Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases. The message of "the Regulars," and the name of the team itself, is inspired by the notion that we are all just "regular" people and that everyone can make a difference! Enzo Simone, the vision behind the 10 Mountains 10 Years Project, was just one guy who climbed the first mountain in 2003 by himself. Since then, he's raised an army - with hundreds participating in the last climb.

Saviers first became involved with "the Regulars" when she and a friend were climbing Mount Hood in Oregon and met Brett and Troy, who has Early Onset Parkinson's Disease. After they reached the summit, Brett and Troy started to unroll banners for the Alzheimer's Association and Michael J. Fox Foundation. Saviers offered to take photos as the two explained their project. When she returned home, she kept checking their website for photos and when she did not find any, she emailed the webmaster, which happened to be Simone. It was his infectious enthusiasm for conquering Alzheimer's and Parkinson's diseases and his commitment to accomplish his vision that got Saviers involved in the project. Simone still continues to inspire her to utilize all of her talents and energy to contribute to the mission.

The goal of 10 Mountains 10 Years is to find a cure for these diseases explains Saviers. This is done through various stages of advocacy. First is to create awareness of the need for research and support, raising funds and working with organizations that allocate these funds to the most promising research project. "the Regulars" have raised tens of thousands of dollars for the Alzheimer's Association and the Michael J. Fox Foundation for Parkinson's Research (TEAM Fox). The 2010 Mount Washington climb alone which required her to overcome the fear of speaking to large groups of people. She also learned to be responsible for a portion of chapter operations. "I'm grateful for the support and encouragement of my Fraternity brothers and the significant guidance from our District Directors and Regional Vice Presidents. It allowed us to succeed in doing new things. It made me realize that I could do anything!" says Saviers.

Saviers is now a frequent climber with "the Regulars," an international raised over $50,000! Secondly, the team supports caregiver awareness because all those contributing know that these diseases not only strike the patient, but also the caregivers.

A newly produced movie, "10 Mountains 10 Years," features "the Regulars" and chronicles the team as they climb 10 of the greatest peaks in the world. The movie, written and directed by Jennifer Yee, spreads awareness of the need for research for Alzheimer's and Parkinson's. Collaborating with the Leeza Gibbons Memory Foundation and the Focus On a Cure Foundation for Parkinson's, proceeds from the movie go towards medical research and caregiver programs.

For Brother Saviers, the part of the movie that was filmed on the mountain was no effort. But, the studio interviews were another story. For her, it was strange to be in a film studio, sitting on a stool, answering questions for the camera. At the premiere, it was even stranger seeing herself on the silver screen! Saviers describes the film as being "a story of hope and common everyday people coming together for a common mission of making the world a better place to live. You can either sit on the sidelines and complain about the world or you can get into the game and do something about it. I chose to get involved and I became a better person because of it."

Saviers found a way to combine her passion for mountain climbing with her commitment to utilize her talents for a worthwhile mission - and giving back to her community. If you wish to support the mission of 10 Mountains 10 Years or would like more information, go to www.theregulars.org or email Brother Saviers at lori.saviers@gmail.com. There are many ways you can help. You can even start your own project, create your own website to promote the film or hold your own event.

"Don't ever think there is nothing you can do just because you are only one person or a small group. Anything you can do helps," says Saviers. One of her favorite stories is about an African boy, Nkosi Johnson, who was diagnosed with AIDS as an infant and spoke to audiences all over the world about his disease before his death at age 12. He said these inspiring words "Do all you can, with what you have, in the time you have, in the place you are." ▲

Business Lessons Atop A Mountain

The lessons learned from Brother Lori Saviers' first attempt at Mount Shasta and other climbing experiences are similar to lessons that can also be applied in business or other aspects of life. Saviers describes some fundamental requirements for mountain climbing:

▲ Plan. Any situation, obstacle, or challenge can only be overcome one step at a time. Whether the objective is climbing to the summit of a mountain, achieving a profit objective or any other goal, you cannot achieve it without proper planning. Understanding and studying the possible challenges and obstacles you might encounter are paramount for success.

▲ Prepare and obtain the right tools. It does not make much sense to know that rain or snow are possible and not have adequate clothing. Likewise, knowing what is needed to successfully launch a new product and service and not having the proper tools and resources to do it would also be foolhardy.

▲ Perseverance, but know if and when to give up. An alpine start for the summit of a mountain usually commences between 11:00p.m. and 1:00a.m. and it is easy to lose sight of one's objective and tempting to think "why am I doing this?" However continuing to put one foot in front of the other will get you to the top. Climbing a mountain or succeeding in business cannot be done any other way. One just has to keep going. That being said, there is honor in knowing when you have been beat. There will be other days and other opportunities. The point is to always do your best - everything that you can possibly do - and survive to come back another day.

▲ Teamwork. The best thing you can learn about mountain climbing is the importance of teamwork. Sometimes you must subordinate your immediate desires for the betterment of the team - and if there is anything you can offer in the way of your skills or talents it is your obligation to do so. This is true in Delta Sigma Pi, in life and in climbing mountains. ▲
