Challenge Your Routine: The Most Important Habits of Successful College Students with Tim Augustine

What is success? Getting an A in a difficult class, maintaining a 3.9 GPA, landing your first dream job, and / or earning $500,000 a year by the time you are 30 years old? Do you ever wonder why getting ahead can sometimes seem like such a struggle? The truth is: If you want to be highly successful, you need to be highly disciplined. I've surveyed successful college students, various executives and entrepreneurs about the things they're doing every day which help them succeed. They typically credit simple daily routines which have been proven over time to give them an edge. It's a question of good habits: things you do on a regular basis that set you apart from the hordes of other, more scattered students. In the hopes of separating the average to the extraordinary, I have created this program.

We will explore:

- The fact: You spend 1 out of every 2 minutes doing something that you're not even aware of.
- Breaking bad habits, starting new ones and a plan to stay the course.
- The direct correlation between displeasure, benefits and consistency.
- The Top 10 most important habits of successful people
