International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi

TO THE GRAND COUNCIL OF THE
DELTA SIGMA PI

Gentlemen:

We business students who are now organized as the Texas Christian University Chamber of Commerce, striving ever for improvement, have given much consideration to the matter of obtaining a business fraternity for the betterment of our relations and for the opportunities of advancement and the feeling of brotherhood which a well rounded and esteemed fraternity would offer.

After much research and deliberation and after consultation with several of your alumni and officers, Delta Sigma Pi was selected by formal vote within our organization as the fraternity we desire. Our faculty sponsors presented our request and proposal to the Texas Christian University School of Business faculty where it was unanimously approved.

We respectfully and hopefully submit our application to petition for a charter and sincerely desire that you give us due consideration for the attainment of this charter with Delta Sigma Pi.

Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Thompson:

You already know of the petition which a fine group of young people from our School of Business is making for the establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Texas Christian University. Our School of Business has excellent leadership and has been enrolling an increasingly high quality of students. In my opinion, you would be well pleased with the membership if you and your group should see your way clear to grant the petition of our young people. The people in this area, as well as those of us on the T.C.U. campus, would greatly appreciate this favorable act on your part.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Most cordially yours,

M. E. Sadler, President,
Texas Christian University.

Dear Mr. Thompson

It is a pleasure for me to recommend the business students who, as the T. C. U. Chamber of Commerce, are making application for the establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

It has been my privilege to know personally each and every member of the petitioning group, and I recommend them to you collectively and individually, as men of character, substantial academic achievement, and as leaders on our campus. It is my feeling that a chapter of your international organization on our campus would be a real asset and we hope that you will look with favor upon this petition.

If my office can supply you with any additional information, please feel free to call on us.

Sincerely

Dear Mr. Thompson:

I am glad to recommend to Delta Sigma Pi the group of students in the School of Business who are petitioning for a chapter.

During my five years as a member of the faculty, I have observed the activities of the present organization, the TCU Chamber of Commerce. This group has proved to be active in all phases of student life on the campus. The Chamber has made a very definite professional contribution by sponsoring meetings with outside speakers which have been open to all students. Whenever we have special conferences and meetings in the School of Business, members have always been willing to serve in whatever capacity they could.

While our men's organization is active and successful, I feel that a national chapter of your organization on our campus would be an asset. Therefore, I endorse the petition and hope it will receive favorable consideration.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Thompson

I earnestly hope that we may have a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Texas Christian University. I observed Delta Sigma Pi in operation at Texas Tech and attended its meetings regularly at the University of Texas. I know what a chapter can do for our students.

I am sure, also, that the T. C. U. chapter would be a distinct credit to the fraternity. I know personally most of the students petitioning for our chapter, and I am sure they will work hard to establish a chapter here.

Sincerely yours

FORT WORTH

Even before Major Ripley Arnold and his Second Dragoons established the tiny outpost, Fort Worth, on the banks of the Trinity in 1849, the locale was known as the place "Where The West Begins."

This famous slogan was born in 1843, when General Edward H. Tarrant met near here with the chiefs of many Texas Indian tribes. A treaty was formed; the Indians were to remain to the West. Gen. Tarrant traced a line, passing through the future site of Fort Worth, to indicate the "beginning of the West."

Citizens with a real pioneering spirit followed Major Arnold to the obscure settlement. When the army post was abandoned in 1853, those first Fort Worthians stayed on. The cavalry stables became the city's first hotel, and stores and homes were built around it.

Progress in the pioneer community was slow and laborious at first. During the Civil War, growth stopped completely. But with the end of the War Between the States, Fort Worth soon saw business revive and the town entered the most picturesque period of its history.

Great herds of Longhorns thundered from Texas to Northern markets and railroads in Kansas. Fort Worth was on the "freeway" of those days . . . the Chisholm trail. The roaring town became the trading point for the whole region to the Northwest.

The first railroad came in 1876, and Fort Worth changed from a halting place along the cattle trail to the goal of the drives. Cattle pens were built and the town became the shipping point.

Fort Worth had become Cowtown.

The turn of the century brought packing houses to the thriving city. With them came unprecedented growth. The population jumped from 27,000 in 1900 to more than 73,000 in the census of 1910.

One of the most important events in Fort Worth's rich history occurred 90 miles away. Wildcatters hit oil in Ranger in 1917. Then came discoveries in Desdemona, Breckenridge, and Burkburnett.

National attention was focused on Texas. And Fort Worth, strategically located to serve the booming areas, began a steady economic climb that is still in progress.

In recent years the aircraft industry has been one of the city's blue ribbon businesses . . . providing an annual payroll of more than $200 million.

Today, this most typically Texan of all Texas cities is blessed with a diversified economy... a blending of cattle and agriculture, oil, business and industry, and an alert, progressive, friendly citizenry.

Fort Worth is the fourth-ranking Texas city in population and third in industry. It is one of the nation's leading livestock and grain markets, with outstanding rail, highway, and airline facilities. The beautiful new Greater Fort Worth International Airport covers 1,858 acres, and is built to accommodate the largest types of aircraft.

From frontier post and cattle market, Fort Worth has developed into a city of industrial importance and civic attractiveness

Progress has been the keynote of TCU since it was founded . . . without losing its western flavor and heritage.

First began to realize their ambition when they leased a three story stone structure and opened Addison College.

Their purpose as stated in the first charter, April 11, 1874, was "to support and promote literary and scientific education with an institution of high order and unexcelled advantages."

Six years after being adopted and endorsed by a state convention of delegates of the Christian Church as a college for the Christian Brotherhood of Texas, Addison College changed its name to Addison Christian University.

Christmas Day, 1885, Addison was moved to Waco, Texas, and in 1902 its name was changed to Texas Christian University to

T. C . U . HISTORY (PETITION)

The history of Texas Christian University has always been the story of a school which placed great values upon man's relationship with God as well as a school whose name reflects its principles rather than its denominational affiliation. The University's history virtually parallels that of the great frontier empire which during the post-Civil War era has become today's West Texas. TCU is the oldest college or university in that section of the state and the fifth oldest among all Texas schools.

Progress has been the keynote of TCU since it was founded at Thorp Springs in 1873. Brothers Addison and Randolph Clark first began to realize their ambition when they leased a three story stone structure and opened AddRan College.

Their purpose as stated in the first charter, April 11, 1874, was "to support and promote literary and scientific education with an institution of high order and unexcelled advantages."

Six years after being adopted and endorsed by a state convention of delegates of the Christian Church as a college for the Christian Brotherhood of Texas, AddRan College changed its name to AddRan Christian University.

Christmas Day, 1885, AddRan was moved to Waco, Texas, and in 1902 its name was changed to Texas Christian University to suit the enlarged purpose and work of the school. (AddRan was the name given the college of Arts and Science -- the nucleus of the university.)

On March 22, 1920 TCU's main building was gutted by fire and when losses could not be fully recovered by insurance, the offer of Fort Worth residents of $200,000 and fifty-six acres of land was accepted.

(TCU's never ceasing struggles to bring the best in education to her students was recognized by state and national educators soon after its move to Fort Worth. The formation of the Association of Texas Colleges in 1912 saw TCU as a charter member.)

(Shortly after, TCU became a member of the Association of American Colleges, and that same year the General Education Board recognized TCU's progress by granting it $10,000 a year for three years to increase teachers' salaries. The following year, 1913, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States admitted TCU to membership.)

The Fort Worth years have been TCU's "golden age." The school's rapid growth has been marked by new buildings which have provided facilities for over 10,000 students with a faculty staff of over 300 members.

X A historical pageant marked the realization of fifty years of continuous service and progress in June, 1923. The goal was Nursing was added as the eighth academic unit of the university, liquidation of all indebtedness of $300,000 and raising the school's endowment to $500,000.

In December, 1923, TCU received a trust from Mary Coutts Burnett and two years later the library bearing her name was opened on East Campus. After the lean war years, the period from 1924 to 1930 became another period of renewed prosperity. The 1000 mark was passed in enrollment and was gradually increasing. Sports began to play an important part as they began to make money for the school. TCU's first Southwest Conference Championship came during this period.

Progress was marked by the organization of the graduate school and the construction of a Field House. In 1927 the General Education Board gave TCU $166,666 which cleared its debts. In 1928 TCU was approved by the Association of American Universities and in 1930 was listed by the American Association of University Women. This same year a $400,000 Stadium was erected south of the campus.

In 1936 the Evening College was designated as a distinct Administrative unit and the TCU School of Business was organized in 1938.

In 1942 Foster Hall was completed providing a modern dormitory for women students. A year later the university was reorganized in seven schools and colleges. In 1946 Harris College of Nursing was added as the eighth academic unit of the university. Tom Brown Hall and Waits Hall, new men's and women's dormitories, were completed in 1947--Tom Brown at a cost of $350,000 and Waits Hall at a cost of $450,000.

Only a year later a $500,000 endowment was received, marking the jubilee celebration of the 75th anniversary of TCU.

On September 19, 1949 Ed Landreth Auditorium and the Fine Arts building was dedicated. This air-conditioned building was added to the campus at a cost of $2,000,000 for both equipment and actual building costs. It was heralded as the largest of its kind in Texas and the only structure in the nation providing complete facilities for all the arts under one roof. The auditorium has a seating capacity of 1623.

The Amon G. Carter Stadium was dedicated on December 1, 1951, giving TCU one of the finest stadiums in the Southwest Conference. The stadium seating capacity was increased to 33,000.

Other more recent historical milestones in TCU's rapid growth and expansion include many new buildings. A new $2,200,000 Science Building was dedicated on December 5, 1952. This fine building is among the Southwest's largest offering the latest in modern experimental laboratories and complete facilities.

In 1954 the university completed the new Religion Center at a cost of $1,200,000. The beautiful structure comprises the undergraduate religion building, Brite College of the Bible (graduate School), and Robert Carr Chapel with its Colonial Spire which can be seen for miles.

In 1955 TCU realized another dream come true with the dedication of the new $1,200,000 Brown-Lupton Student Center. Also during this year Pete Wright Hall, men's dormitory, was completed at a cost of $800,000, and a complete renovation of Jarvis Hall, women's dormitory, was completed at a cost of $250,000. TCU's accelerated growth also became apparent in sports as TCU-Amon G. Carter Stadium was expanded to 47,000 seats. This included the most modern press box and athletic offices in the conference.

In 1957 the TCU School of Business expanded its curriculum as it moved into the new Dan D. Rogers Hall, constructed at a cost of $825,000. Also during this year two modern dormitories, Milton E. Daniel and Colby D. Hall, were completed at a cost of over $1,000,000 each.

The year 1958 was one of TCU's largest in growth and expansion. The School's Board of Directors's President, Milton E. Daniel, left an estate in trust to the university valued at $10,000,000. Reconstruction and enlargement of Mary Coats Burnett Library at a cost of $1,300,000 provides the university with a very modern library. It now features modern facilities which include open stacks, graduate study rooms, and reading lounges. The library contains over 400,000 volumes. The TCU Education Center, Bailey Hall, was remodeled at a cost of $200,000.

Other expansion programs completed during the year of 1958 included Sherley Hall, women's dormitory, and Clark Hall, men's dormitory, each at a cost of $1,600,000.

The current year promises even greater expansion programs with the approved construction of five new buildings on the campus which include an administration Building, a modern Field House, an Astronomical Center, a new Psychology Building, and a new men's dormitory.

TCU has received another incentive for educational growth in the form of approved Ph.D. programs beginning in the fall of 1959.

Much of TCU's progress may be attributed to the inspiration and guidance of her presidents. From Addison Clark, 1873-1899, through E. V. Zollars, 1902-1906, Clinton Lockhart, 1906-1911, Frederick Kershner, 1911-1915, and E. M. Waits, 1916-1941, to M. E. Sadler who has capably guided TCU's rapid growth since 1941, the school has flourished with outstanding leadership.

TCU has come along way since the three story structure at Thorp Springs, and it has not been an easy trip; but no matter what the upsets, the goal has been ever present. This educational purpose, coupled with the spiritual and financial aid of friends, and far-sighted, competent supervision, has enabled Texas Christian University to find its place among the finer schools of the country.
