HUNTSVILLE . . .

THE MOUNT VERNON OF TEXAS

Huntsville is located on the banks of the Colorado River, and its history is closely related to the history of the State itself. Before the white men began to settle the country west, the Indians favored the site now occupied by the city. The Indians used this site as a trading post and their well beaten trails led the Anglo-Texas settlers to the land of many springs.

When the Mexican Government began issuing land grants to settlers in 1815, Pleasant Gray received the title to the section of land where Huntsville is now located. He did not reach the location until after he had established a trading post on what is now the town square. When he saw that other settlers were beginning to form a small community, he chose to call his settlement

THE CITY OF HUNTSVILLE

Huntsville is located on the crest of the watershed separating the Trinity and San Jacinto rivers. Its history is closely related to the history of the state itself. Before the white men began to settle the southwest, the Indians favored the site now occupied by the city. The Indians used this site as a trading post and their well beaten trails led the Anglo-Saxon settlers to the land of many springs.

When the Mexican Government began issuing land grants to settlers in 1835, Pleasant Gray received the title to the section of land where Huntsville is now located. He did not name the location until after he had established a trading post on what is now the town square. When he saw that other settlers were beginning to form a small community, he chose to call his settlement Huntsville after his old hometown in Alabama.

The small trading post town began to grow, but it was not chartered as a city until Texas became a republic. The charter is dated January 30, 1845.

Sam Houston, Texas' most colorful adopted son, chose Huntsville as his home when he first came to Texas. His influence on the growth of the community and the state is legend. Today, his homesite is a shrine and visited by thousands every year. Both of his original homes have been restored. A museum where relics of his era are carefully preserved is maintained for posterity.

Even before the establishment of the college named for Sam Houston, Huntsville has been known far and wide as a seat of education. The first educational institutions in Huntsville were academies, first one for men and later a women's academy, both established by the original settlers in the 1840's. Later Austin College, a Presbyterian school, was established, built the first enduring structure, then removed to Sherman, Texas, where it is still going strong. Upon the foundation laid by Austin College, the Texas Legislature built a stronger edifice of educational strength, Sam Houston Normal, chartered in 1879.

Not only is Huntsville noted for its heritage and educational institutions, but also for the penal colony located in the city. The penal colony was established shortly before the Civil War when it was used to house prisoners of war. It has grown both in size and stature. For years sociologists from all over the world have visited the State Penitentiary to study the progressive methods of rehabilitation that have proved so effective under the guidance of such men as the late O. B. Ellis.

Today, Huntsville is a throbbing city of more than 10,000. Its fine supply of pure artesian water, its excellent natural drainage, and its mild climate have attracted many people and businesses. There are over 260 retail stores and service businesses employing upwards of 1500 people.

Huntsville is serviced by the major newspapers in Texas, but is most boastful of the fact that the Huntsville Item is the one newspaper in Texas with the longest continuous service.

Mindful of their rich heritage which fosters responsibility, the citizens of Huntsville have never been known to shirk their duty. They have been working continually to promote more and better facilities for all its future generations.

A Texas Tradition in Education

Huntsville, has a history which is a vital part of the development of the State of Texas. The legislative act creating the Huntsville Normal Institute, the first teacher-training institution in Texas, was signed by Governor D. W. Roberts on April 27, 1879.

In order to meet advancing standards of the public schools, the curriculum was extended in 1919 by the Board of Regents to include four years of college work; the faculty was increased and strengthened and additions were made to library and laboratory equipment, thus transforming the institution into a standard four-year college for teachers with authority to confer the bachelor's degree.

Five years later the legislature changed the name of the normal schools of Texas to State Teachers Colleges. The name Huntsville Normal Institute became the Sam Houston State Teachers College.

Five years later the legislature changed the names of the normal schools of Texas to State Teachers Colleges. The Sam Houston Normal Institute became the Sam Houston State Teachers College.

In 1925 Sam Houston State Teachers College was admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and in 1936 the college was authorized to offer graduate courses leading to the master's degree.

Sam Houston State Teachers College was established and presently exists to train teachers for the public schools of Texas. In order to accomplish this end, the college offers instruction in all aspects of teaching and administration of all the grades, high school, and junior college. As new subjects and areas of instruction are added to the curricula of the Texas Public schools, the college makes special effort to prepare teachers for those subjects.

In addition, the college offers courses leading to Liberal Arts Degrees and courses required for entrance to professional schools of medicine, law, engineering, dentistry, and other professions. Five years of standard college work are offered in such special subjects as music, art, commercial branches, vocational home economics, industrial arts, vocational agriculture, physical education and the graphic arts.

Credits from Sam Houston State Teachers College are accepted in all standard colleges of the nation. The college is a member of the Association of Texas Colleges, the Southern Association of Colleges, the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, and the American Association of University Women.

Sam Houston State Teachers College today enjoys the advantages of having one of the finest physical plants and campuses in Texas. The instructional buildings and dormitories, except one, are competely air-conditioned. Many new buildings have been erected to meet the needs of a rapidly growing student body. Improved facilities for all areas of instruction are constantly being added. As one of the oldest state-supported teacher training institutions west of the Mississippi, the college looks forward condidently to the bright promise of the future.

THE DEPARTMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

In 1925, the Department of Business Administration was established in the College of Business and Administration. It was also in 1925 that the first students majoring in Business Administration were admitted from Sam Houston State Teachers College.

During the following twenty-five years the Department made tremendous progress in both enrollment and in the course offerings.

From 1925 to 1931 there was a gradual increase in enrollment. In 1931 there were twenty-four courses offered in the curriculum. These courses were the following: "Business English," "College English," "Business English," and "Business English." In 1932, for the first time, the Department offered five courses by correspondence. These five courses were "Business English," "Business English," "Business English," "Business English," and "Business English."

THE HISTORY OF THE BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

In 1925, the Sam Houston State Teachers College was admitted to membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. It was also in 1925 that the first student majoring in Business Administration was graduated from Sam Houston State Teachers College.

During the following twenty-five years the Business Department made tremendous progress in both enrollment and in its course offerings.

From 1925 to 1933 there was a gradual increase in enrollment. In 1925 there were twenty-four courses offered in the curriculum. Among those courses were the following which have not been offered since that year in the Business Department: "Teaching of Penmanship," "College Annual," "Business English," and "Penmanship Drills." In 1928, for the first time, the Department offered five courses by correspondence. These five courses were: "Contracts and Agency," "Sales and Negotiable Instruments and Bailments," "Partnerships and Corporations," and "Business Correspondence."

The next significant period in the history of the development of the department came in the years 1934 to 1940. The number of courses offered during these years increased. In 1934, there were fourteen (14) courses offered and in 1940, there were thirty-six (36).

In 1948 there was a sharp increase in the number of students graduated, the number being seventy-three (73). The year 1949 represented the peak year as far as the number graduated during the twenty-five years of development is concerned. In 1950 there was a slight decrease in the number of students graduated, but the number of courses offered increased. The peak year, as far as courses offered is concerned, was 1950.

Today, the business department has surpassed the growth in enrollment of the college proportionately. It is now the largest department on the campus, with 1961 enrollment being 1,053. The department has twelve full-time and ten part-time faculty members.

The business department now offers majors in accounting, business education, general business and secretarial science.

BRIEF HISTORY OF DELTA SIGMA

Delta Sigma, a professional business administration club, was founded on November 18, 1961 to replace the existing B. A. Club. This new organization was formed by a group of thirty undergraduate students who were brought together by Dr. Jean D. Neal, head of the Business Administration Department. This club was organized specifically for the purpose of seeking affiliation with the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

The club was immediately recognized by the school and help and assistance was offered by the administration.

Our schedule calls for a meeting of the club every Thursday night. The meetings during the fall semester were devoted to organization, promotion, and administration. During the spring semester a speaker will be presented at every other meeting, and on intervening nights a business will be held.

Sam Houston is located close enough to Houston, Dallas, Ft. Worth, and Waco to give us an unlimited supply of successful businessmen from which to choose our speakers. We have lined up several men from the Banking, Insurance, and Investments fields for this semester.

There are two events planned for this semester which plan to be outstanding. The first will be a field trip to the offices of Hutton Investment Counselors in Houston on March 16. We will leave from Sam Houston at eight o'clock in the morning and be in Hutton's offices about ten o'clock. After this tour we will have lunch and then take a trip down the Houston Ship Channel on the Port of Houston's Yacht. We feel that this will be an educational and entertaining trip for all.

The second event will be the Delta Sigma spring picnic, which we plan to present annually. This will be open to all students of business and their dates. Tickets will be sold by the members of the Delta Sigma Club. We plan to use this picnic as a fund raising project for the coming years.

New offices will be elected during this semester to replace the ones to be graduated. We feel that these officers should be elected sometime before the end of the semester, so they can be trained by the officers they are replacing.

This semester promises to be an interesting and exciting one for all of our members.

Dear Mr. Farrar:
Dear Mr. Farrar:

Delta Sigma, a local organization in the Business Administration Department at Sam Houston State Teachers College, is who compose this local organization are people of high intent. Their reputation I am writing this letter in support of Delta Sigma's petition to become a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. Delta Sigma is a local organization in the Department of Business Administration at Sam Houston State Teachers College. I am vitally interested in the welfare of the students at this college, and I am anxious to support anything which I believe to be of value to this college and its students. Many national organizations have established chapters on our campus, and I feel that the affiliation with these organizations strengthens the work of the students and improves scholarship.

Sam Houston State Teachers College enrolled 5,045 students this past fall. The Department of Business Administration is by far the largest department on our campus. There are 1,022 students majoring in business administration and 2,277 students enrolled in business administration courses. I think that the affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi would give this department the prestige which it needs to continue to grow and progress. We would be delighted to have you at Sam Houston.

I sincerely hope that you will look with favor upon this petition.

Very sincerely yours,

Respectfully yours,

Dear Mr. Farrar:

Delta Sigma, a local organization in the Business Administration department at Sam Houston, wants to become a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

Please know that the young people who compose this local organization are people of high intent. Their reputation on the campus academically, socially, and otherwise is highly commendable. I believe that your national organization would be glad to have them within your charter. I further believe that this unit would perform consistently with your high ideals. Naturally, I give their petition my full endorsement.

We have at Sam Houston a few more than five thousand students. We expect five thousand, five hundred next fall. The Department of Business Administration is the largest department on our campus. There is ample field for a fine program of Delta Sigma Pi within this department. I am particularly interested in the emphasis your national organization places on scholarship. We would be delighted to have you at Sam Houston. Sincerely,

Very sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Farrar:

The Administration of Sam Houston State Teachers College has officially approved Delta Sigma, a professional organization in the Department of Business Administration, as an official campus organization. The men in this organization have maintained a scholastic rating much above the all college average. I feel that in the near future they can and will excell their present standing.

The Department of Business Administration on our campus is one of our largest departments. It has more than one thousand majors. Its graduates have been highly successful and are located in big businesses through the state. We have many other professional organizations on our campus. We feel that our Business Administration Department would profit by affiliating with a national order like Delta Sigma Pi. The Administration of this college will appreciate your careful consideration of the petition of Delta Sigma. You may rest assured that the entire college will give full support to the organization.

Sincerely,

W.T. Creager

Dear Mr. Farrar:

Delta Sigma, the local club for the business administration men on our campus is petitioning the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi for a charter. I am keenly interested in this local group becoming affiliated with such a fine organization as Delta Sigma Pi.

It is my opinion that close affiliation with your group will offer them an opportunity to develop professionally. I also am quite positive that this fraternity will be good for our department and our college.

I can assure you that the group comprising the present membership of Delta Sigma are of superior quality and are an excellent representation of the finest men on our campus.

I recommend them to you, and I hope that the petition receives favorable acceptance.

Dear Mr. Farrar:

It has come to my attention that a responsible group of young men, students at Sam Houston State Teachers College of our city, Huntsville, Texas, are in the process of making application for a charter to organize a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, International Business Fraternity for male students.

I have made the necessary inquiries and am personally aware of the need for this organization on the campus and am completely in accord and satisfied that they are entitled to every consideration and would be a credit to this international organization. The proposed faculty sponsor, Dr. Jean D. Neal, is a close personal friend, as are a majority of the administrative heads of this college. I sincerely hope that they will be permitted to fulfill this desire.
