HAMMOND, LOUISIANA

THE HISTORY OF HAMMOND, LOUISIANA

LOCATION

Hammond, a very attractive city with many oak and crepe myrtle trees lining its streets, is located in Tangipahoa Parish in Southeast Louisiana, at the intersection of U. S. Highways 51 and 190, and Interstate Highway 55. Another proposed Interstate Highway is I 12. It is 42 miles from Baton Rouge, the capitol of Louisiana and 60 miles from New Orleans, the nation's second port.

Hammond is located in the heart of the famed Ozone Belt of Southeast Louisiana. Because much of Louisiana is very humid, the Ozone Belt attracts people in search of a healthful climate and the advantages of a bracing atmosphere naturally cooled by Gulf breezes, and from which excess moisture is removed by the pine trees in the area.

GOVERNMENT

Hammond has a commission form of government with three officials elected for a term of four years-- Mayor, Commissioner of Finance and Commissioner of Streets and Parks. There are seven appointed officials and the recreation and airport commissioners. Located in the City Hall are the offices of the Mayor and Council, Water and Tax Departments, City Business Office, City Police, City Court, American Red Cross, and Veterans Affairs.

CHURCHES

There are 28 churches of 16 denominations-- Baptist, Catholic, Christian, Episcopal, Methodist, Presybyterian, Seventh Day Baptist, Seventh Day Adventist, Lutheran, Assembly of God, Church of God, Church of Christ, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Jehovah Witnesses, Holiness and Christian Scientist.

RECREATION

Hammond has numerous recreational facilities. There are five parks with playground equipment. Zemurray Park has a beautiful modern swimming pool and dressing rooms; a community center which is used for games, dances and meetings; two golf fields; playground equipment; picnic areas; an artificial pond which is always stocked with fish where anyone may fish except for the restocking periods. The Jaycees have a fishing rodeo for the children annually. Another park is the S. Orange St. Park on the east side of town. It has playground equipment including tennis courts, ball field, etc. There is a park in the northwest section with playground equipment and wading pool. There is a playground and swimming pool on Mooney Ave., and a lighted softball field and playground on N. Orange for the negroes. Southeastern Louisiana College and Hammond High provide a complete athletic program.

SPORTS

For sports fans, Southeastern Louisiana College football games draw the interest of this area; also, the High School teams create much interest. Other sports are the Southeastern basketball games, Little League and Babe Ruth baseball games, Little Conference football under the sponsorship of the Jaycees; drag races held the 4th Sunday from March through November at the Airport by the Hammond and Ponchatoula Lions Clubs. The Jaycees sponsor car races twice a year. Golf tournaments are held at the Oak Knoll Country Club.

AGRICULTURE

Hammond is the center of America's greatest Strawberry belt. Hundreds of cars of this delicious fruit are shipped to all parts of the country each spring. The farmers supplement their income from strawberries with crops of beans, peppers, cucumbers, eggplants and squash each spring and fall. Another leading industry is dairying. Large quantities of milk are shipped from local markets each year. The chicken industry is fast becoming one of the leading industries. Large flocks of chickens are becoming very predominant throughout the farm area. Within the past few years two hatcheries have built new plants. Large shipments of broilers and eggs are shipped daily through local agencies. Tangipahoa Parish has an income of more than $17,000,000 from strawberries, milk, beef cattle, poultry and eggs and forestry, annually. The dairy and chicken industries have surpassed the strawberry in agricultural income for Tangipahoa Parish.

COMMERCIAL

The Illinois Central Railroad divides the town east and west. The trading area includes 50 miles with a population of 81,000. Hammond is a market center for a heavily populated farm area. The City Zone has a population of 12,728. The main commercial district is centrally located with approximately 12 blocks covered by businesses. A commercial area in the western section is building up rapidly. Though many of the buildings in the main business section were in existence at the turn of the century, the buildings have been modernized and could not be recognized as the same. In the business district, one will find all types of stores: department, ladies wearing apparel, men's wearing apparel, furniture, hardware, jewelry, drug, shoe variety, appliances, sporting goods, and many other types of businesses.

I have had the pleasure of meeting with these boys as a group and have had contacts with several of the individuals from time to time and I can state without reservation that they are as fine a group of young men as I have ever known. They are clean cut, enthusiastic about their school work, intelligent and express a desire to learn.

As an alumni member of Delta Sigma Pi I feel that it would be advantageous to the fraternity to have these boys as members.

Gentlemen:

I talked to a group of young men at Southeastern La. College last night on the subject of 'Retail Credit' and its place in our business. These men were sincerely interested and most enthusiastic. A group of this caliber will assure success to any organization and certainly will guarantee its leadership on the campus.

I hope that you will consider their application seriously and I am looking forward to having Delta Sigma Pi on the Southeastern La. College campus.

Dear Sirs:

The Sigma Epsilon Club, a student organization of business administration majors here on campus, is petitioning for membership as a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

The Business Administration Department is our biggest academic department on campus and for years has been without a professional club or fraternity. The present club is made up of fine young professionally minded students whom I strongly recommend as prospective members of Delta Sigma Pi. Delta Sigma Pi can offer them the opportunity they are in need of and at the same time gain a worthy and valuable chapter.

The State Board in 1940 THE HISTORY OF their curricula to have economics and in 1945 a four-year curriculum in agriculture.

SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA COLLEGE

January 18, 1946, the State Board of Education made available
$84,675.00 from emergency funds for the purchase of seven city blocks
Southeastern Louisiana College is the outgrowth of the Hammond Junior College, which was established in 1925 by the citizens of the Southern half of Tangipahoa Parish. The total area of the campus is approximately 75 acres. At the same meeting of the State Board,

The first session began on September 14, 1925, with a president, four instructors, and forty students. Both freshmen and sophomores were enrolled. Facilities of the Hammond High School were used. The main objectives of the junior college were to provide a two-year curriculum in teacher education and basic undergraduate work in the arts and sciences. The curricula were approved by the Board of Education.

The student body grew to such an extent that the high school building could no longer accommodate the college classes. In 1928 an eighteen thousand dollar bond issue was voted, and fifteen acres of the present campus were purchased for use by the College. A large residence on the property was used as a home for the president and a women's dormitory. A servants' house was remodeled to provide classrooms, laboratories, and a library. At this time the name of the institution was changed to Southeastern Louisiana College.

The work of the College continued mainly that of preparing teachers for the two-year state certificate and offering basic undergraduate courses for students who wished to enter the professional schools in the universities of the state. In 1930 a third year was added to the curricula.

The purchase of sixty acres of land adjoining the campus increased its size to seventy-five acres. During the same year one hundred thousand dollars was provided by a bond issue for new buildings. A frame gymnasium and a brick and concrete administration building were erected.
The administration building provided space for offices, classrooms, and a library. It was named Lucius McGehee Hall in memory of Dr. Lucius McGhee of Hammond, one of the founders of the College, and until his death a member of the local executive committee. All science work was centered in the original frame and stucco building, which had been enlarged several times.

In 1937 the State Board of Education authorized the College to prepare curricula extending through four years and leading to the baccalaureate degrees. Four-year curricula in the liberal arts, teacher education, business administration, music and social sciences, and health and physical education were submitted to the State Board and were formally approved. The first degrees were conferred in May, 1939.

The State Board in 1940 approved four-year curricula in home economics and in 1945 a four-year curriculum in agriculture.

January 18, 1946, the State Board of Education made available $84,675.00 from emergency funds for the purchase of seven city blocks east and west of the campus fronting on Dakota Street and 275 acres of land adjoining the campus on the north and northwest, extending back to Highway 51. This increased the total area of the campus to approximately 375 acres. At the same meeting of the State Board, the reorganization of the College into the Division of Liberal Arts, the Division of Education, and the Division of applied Sciences was authorized.

The following presidents have served the institution since its founding: L. A. Sims (1925-1933); Y. L. Fontenot (1933-1937); J. Leon Clark (1937-1944); George W. Bond (acting president, 1944-1945); Gladney Jack Tinsley (1945-December 8, 1951); Luther H. Dyson (acting president, December 9, 1951-June 30, 1952); Clark L. Barrow (July 1, 1952-August 8, 1953). Luther H. Dyson has served as president since August 9, 1953.

TINSLEY HALL

In 1956 Tinsley Hall was completed. This building contains 14 classes and 14 offices. It houses the Business Administration department. Economics and history classes are also taught here. In one specially designed room there is a computer center.

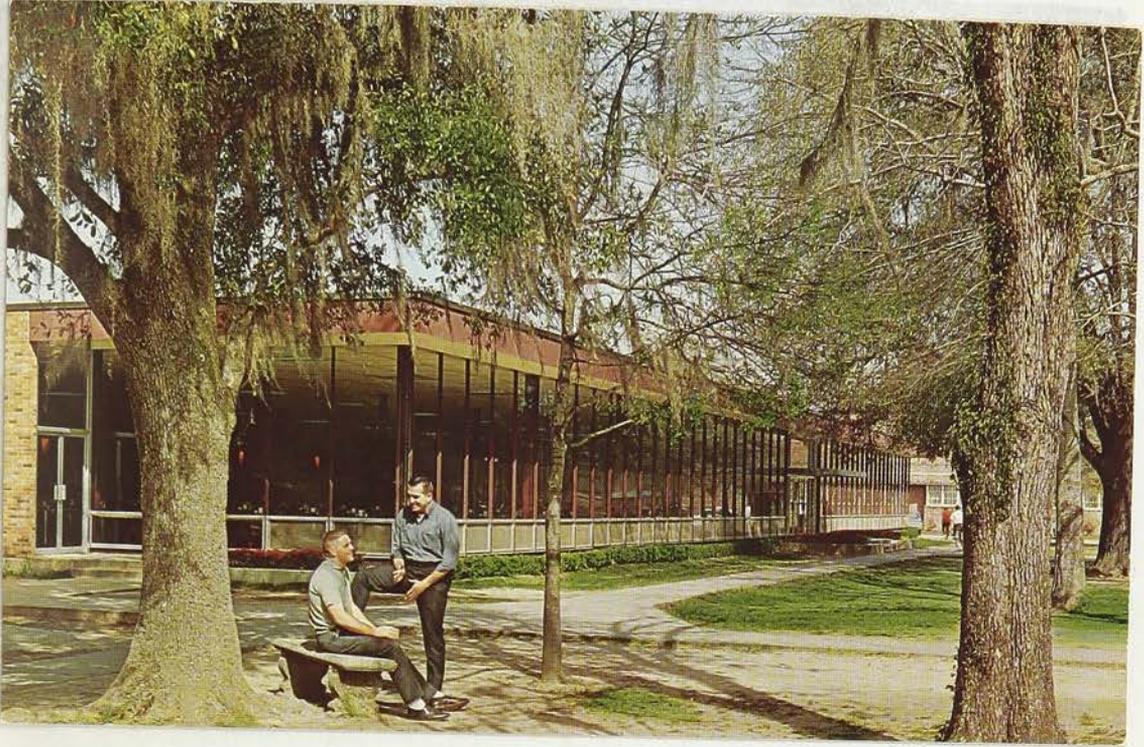

LUCIUS McGEHEE HALL

Lucius McGehee Hall a brick and steel-reinforced concrete building was erected in 1934. It was the first permanent structure on the SLC campus. For many years, it housed just about all the college departments, but as the institution grew the building was used mainly for administrative offices and a few classes. After completion of the Administration Building, McGehee Hall was returned to its original purpose---a class room building. Here are located both the English and health and physical education classrooms.

LINUS A. SIMS MEMORIAL LIBRARY

The Linus A. Sims memorial library is a modern, one-story, modular type, well-equipped building completed in the Spring of 1963. The building is completely air-conditioned and has an excellent lighting system especially designed for library use. The building has a capacity of about 240,000 volumes and will seat about 800 people. All stacks are open.

YELLOWA WILSON CAFETERIA

The new cafeteria was completed in 1956. This building will accommodate 2,400 students. Movable partitions make comfortable and soundproof banquet rooms for organizations planning dinner affairs. These facilities and a new cafeteria now under construction will serve 5,000 students.

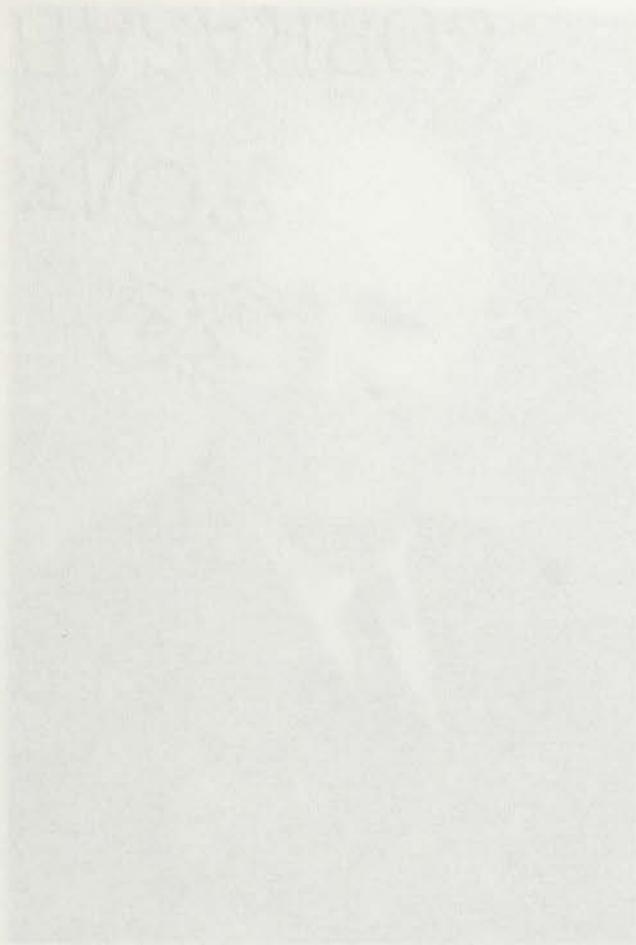

HOLLOWAY-SMITH DORMITORY

Holloway-Smith is a mens resident hall which houses about 400 men. It is for both freshmen and upper classmen. Holloway-Smith was completed in 1956.

CARTER-HARRIS DORMITORY

Dear Sir:

The members of a local Business Administration fraternity at Southeastern Louisiana College are submitting a petition to you for the establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

I am very happy to sanction the petition, and I hope that it will merit your earnest consideration.

The program in the field of Business Administration at Southeastern has been in existence for over thirty-five years. It has almost always been the largest department in the number of students enrolled. It has attempted to present curricula that will prepare young men and women for the various fields of the business world.

The establishment of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, I am sure, would be of inestimable value to the young men in the field of Business Administration; and from my knowledge of the quality of the students and the leadership in the program, I am confident that a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi here will reflect credit on the national organization.

HISTORY OF THE
BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION DEPARTMENT OF SOUTHEASTERN LOUISIANA COLLEGE

The Business Administration Department at Southeastern was started in 1931. At this time, the department consisted of eight home-made desks and one professor. This one professor, Dr. Garrett, is presently the head of the department at Southeastern. In 1938 the Department of Business Administration was formally established, and its academic rank recognized by the Louisiana State Board of Education. After having been shifted to various divisions during the early development of the college, it now resides in the division of Applied Sciences.

At present, there are 1,395 students and 25 highly qualified teachers. The department represents nearly 1/3 of the entire student body of 4,581 students.

Degrees are offered in any one of four different fields. These include Accounting, General Business Administration, Secretarial Administration and Marketing. Marketing had just been added in 1965.

The Business Administration Department at SLC is sensitive to our changing times and because of this is constantly progressing and raising its standards, and requirements.

At present, a data processing program is being developed. A computer was installed in January of 1965, and this computer center has proven itself an indispensable facility to the school. Computer courses are already offered; however, the immediate future will see a more complete variety of courses in this area.

Tinsley Hall houses the Business Administration Department at Southeastern. This modern, air conditioned structure was completed in April of 1956. Tinsley Hall contains modern classroom and laboratory facilities, an annex serves as office space for the professors.

Southeastern's Business Administration Department cooperates fully with the Student Government, Employment Conferences, and also with other college placement programs in order to aid in building stronger relationships between students, administrators, professors, and the entire business community.

Graduates of the department have proven successful in business and industry on both a local and national level.

HISTORY OF SIGMA EPSILON

CALENDAR OF MEETINGS AND ACTIVITIES

October 1 First meeting held. Guest speaker, Mr. Max Barnett Jr., Regional HISTORY OF SIGMA EPSILON Region, Delta Sigma Pi related general information about Delta Sigma Pi. Seventy two interested members were in attendance.

The idea of working to form a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Southeastern Louisiana College first came to mind in April of 1965. Correspondence then followed between the central office of Delta Sigma Pi and the interested students at Southeastern.

Positive steps were taken in May of 1965 to form a local Business Administration club with the intent of affiliating with Delta Sigma Pi.

Two organizational meetings were held before the close of the semester, and plans were made for taking further steps in the fall semester of 1965.

At the beginning of the semester in September of 1965, a seven man committee was formed to organize the club. Faculty advisors, Mr. M. Dear Sir:

As a faculty advisor for the Southeastern Louisiana College business administration club, Sigma Epsilon, I take this opportunity to recommend the club and its members for affiliation with the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

Business Administration students account for approximately thirty percent of Southeastern's total enrollment; consequently, a need exists on our campus for an organization where business administration students, business leaders of the community, and faculty members can associate and promote fellowship and professional enthusiasm for the fields of business and commerce. This need has been recognized for several years, but it remained dormant until April, 1965, when a small group of students realized the importance of such an organization and began planning for the development of a business club. Interest in the club waned during the summer months; however, this fall another group of students expressed interest in forming a club with several objectives, one of which was affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi. This small dedicated group of students has worked diligently to organize the local club and have succeeded in the face of several obstacles.

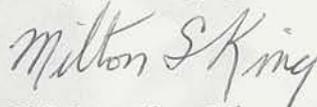

Although several minor roadblocks were encountered, the organizing group has successfully formed a local club and have indicated their dedication and zeal to labor for the objectives that they originally established. Their enthusiasm to accomplish their objectives is attested to by their activities and the fact that the club has officially been sanctioned by the college administration.

All of the members are personally known to me and I can state without reservation that they represent as fine a group of students, individually and collectively, as I have ever been associated with. Each of the members has the capacity to perform a service for the fraternity and the interest required to insure longevity of life for the fraternity on this campus. Each of these students have given willingly of their time and energies to make their organization a reality.

As the faculty sponsor, it is a pleasure for me to be able to recommend Sigma Epsilon and its members to the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi and early approval of their petition sincerely would be appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Gentlemen:

One of my fondest moments was when I was asked to be one of the faculty advisors for the Sigma Epsilon Business Club of Southeastern Louisiana College. Not only was this gratifying personally, but gratifying to see that the young men of the Business Administration Department had become interested in the high values of business standards as propounded by Delta Sigma Pi.

At the very outset, I observed that these young men were desirous of more than just an organization to which they could belong. They were interested in a more concerted action which was directly correlated with their chosen field of study. This desire has been further augmented by the aggressiveness demonstrated in pursuance of the petition to the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

The Department of Business Administration has become one of the largest departments at Southeastern Louisiana College. The forecast indicates even greater growth.

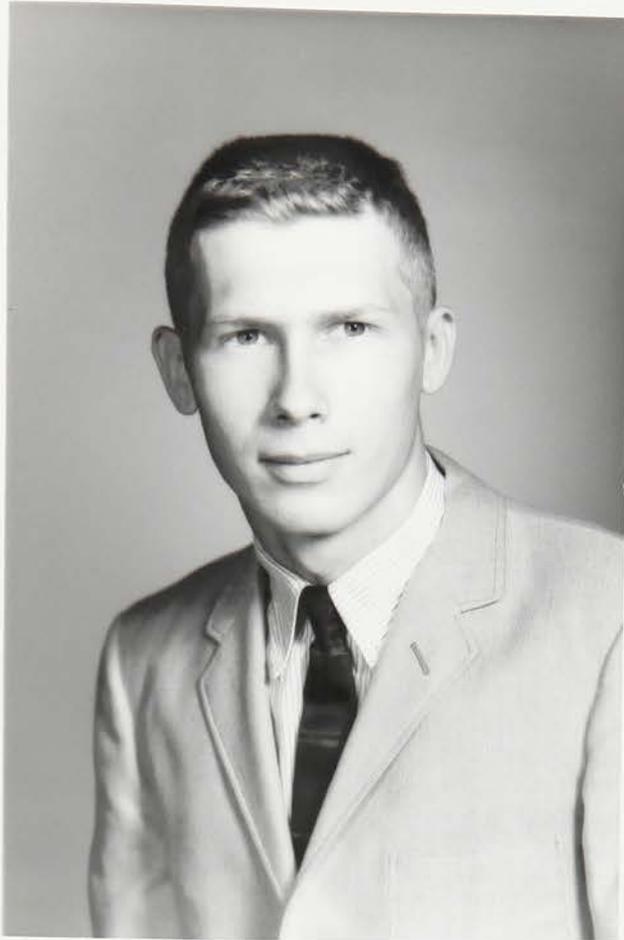

To have a Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on our campus would serve as stimulus for greater individual achievement, and esprit-de-corps among the students of business administration.

It is my sincere desire and wish that your reaction to this petition for charter will be favorable.

Sincerely yours,
Bill Thames
