History of Beta Alpha Epsilon

In November of 1966, Mr. Charles Farrar, Executive Director of Delta Sigma Pi came to La Crosse hoping to foster an interest in a professional business fraternity. He met with Dr. Campbell, Chairman of the Department of Business and Economics. Dr. Campbell, in turn, gathered a small group of students together to hear Mr. Farrar.

The next day a notice was posted on the business bulletin board: "All students interested in forming a Business Fraternity, please sign below." Within a week, there were over eighty signatures.

An information meeting was called early in December. The ideas and suggestions of Mr. Farrar were read and discussed. It was evident that sufficient interest existed, and the thought of a Business Fraternity on our campus began to jell.

Three students volunteered at this meeting to act as an 'ad hoc' committee. They were to contact the administration, the faculty, and the students to see what rules governed the formation of a new organization.

The school was very receptive to the idea of a Professional Business Fraternity. The necessary forms were filed and within two weeks another meeting was called.

At this meeting, specific requirements were discussed including membership, cost, a constitution, etc. It was from these suggestions that the basic constitution was drafted over Christmas vacation.

The final formation meeting took place early in February. Minor changes in the proposed constitution were discussed and a name was chosen. Business Administration and Economics was shortened to B.A.E. which became Beta Alpha Epsilon.

The first official meeting of Beta Alpha Epsilon took place on February 14, 1967. The constitution had been approved by the University and the ad hoc committee was now nominated to serve as the first executive council.

President	-	Thomas Roraff
1st. V.P.	-	Douglas De Muth
2nd. V.P.	-	James Berg
Secretary	-	Charlotte Markos
Treasurer	-	Marilyn Mashak
Sgt-at-arms	-	Charles Hastings

We were now an organization of thirty-five members. In many ways we followed the Delta Sigma Pi example with one important exception, we were coeducational.

From February 14th to the end of the school year, Beta Alpha Epsilon was a very active group. We participated in a business symposium, took a number of tours, and heard seven different speakers. In the spring we purchased fraternity windbreakers with our emblem affixed.

By June we had elected the following year's executive council and said good-bye to our twelve graduating members.

When we met again in September, 1968 we numbered twenty-three with one remaining female member, our sweetheart and past secretary, Charlotte Markos. We took our first pledge class that fall which added six new members.

We then devoted our attention to our major project for the semester, an all-school Career Day. With a great deal of work and much help from the administration, we brought in forty-three major national companies on November 14th. The day was a huge success and will now become an annual event on our campus.

The next major concern was the thought of going national. Both Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi made a presentation to our group. A month of debate followed. Although both organizations were excellent, when the vote was taken, Delta Sigma Pi won overwhelming support.

As of our petitioning date, Beta Alpha Epsilon will be exactly twelve months old. We are "over the hump" and learned a heck-of-a-lot in the process. Our current pledge class for this semester is twenty-eight well-qualified underclassmen, which will bring our total membership to forty-eight. The faculty of the Business Department is 100 per cent behind us and we have come to be a well recognized fraternity on this campus. We believe that the name and meaning of Delta Sigma Pi reflects the spirit of Beta Alpha Epsilon.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

The College of Letters and Science was initiated in 1951. One of the departments was Economics. The department offered an Economics major in 1953. Business Administration major was added in 1961. In the following years Finance and Marketing majors were offered. In 1962 there were 11 graduates in the department. Presently there are over 700 students in the Economics department.

WISCONSIN STATE UNIVERSITY - LA CROSSE

A CAPSULE HISTORY OF 59 YEARS

Wisconsin State University - La Crosse, the second youngest institution in the state university system, opened in September 1909 with 19 faculty members and 176 students.

The physical plant of what was then La Crosse State Normal School consisted of a single building, Main Hall, situated on two city blocks.

Like all of the early normal schools, the primary purpose of the La Crosse institution was the training of teachers for the schools of Wisconsin. In 1914, the specialty of physical education was assigned to La Crosse by the Board of Regents.

While physical education is still considered the special major, La Crosse has become a multi-purpose institution. The fastest growing division is that of Letters and Science, now the largest of the three undergraduate colleges, where students may choose from a broad field of majors. A year-around program of graduate study leading to the degree Master of Science in Teaching is offered in seven major areas. The state legislature in 1967 approved a bill permitting the WSU system to grant Master of Arts and Master of Science degrees in areas other than education. A few comparable figures will help to illustrate the changes brought about over the years.

HISTORY OF LA CROSSE

La Crosse was settled in February, 1842, by Nathan Myrick, Indian trader, who chose this spot because it was at the conflux of the Black, La Crosse and Mississippi Rivers: and the Indians always followed the water routes.

Myrick built his first cabin on Barron's Island, now Pettibone Park, where there were trees available for building. All of the trees, so beautiful now in La Crosse, have been planted.

It was organized as a county in 1851, the land being set off from Crawford County.

The settlement at La Crosse did not begin to grow until 1851, when several groups from Ohio and from eastern Wisconsin settled here. It was incorporated as a city in 1856.

La Crosse was entirely dependent on the Mississippi River for transportation from its first settlement in 1842 to the coming of its first railroad, the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad, in the fall of 1858.

The river packets brought settlers, freight and all commodities, and when the river navigation closed each fall, sleds took the place of the steamboats. The steamboat traffic was almost unbelievable, averaging 200 boats a month landing at La Crosse during the 1856's and 1857's.

In 1860 a steamboat company was organized at La Crosse by William F. and P. S. Davidson and their associates. This grew to be the largest transportation organization on the upper river, operating boats on regularly-scheduled trips on the Mississippi, Chippewa, St. Croix and Minnesota Rivers, also a line on the main river above Minneapolis. The railroads were completely dependent on the boats to carry the mails, passengers and freight from the east bank of the Mississippi to the towns and settlers of Minnesota and Western Wisconsin.

A few years later the railroads built their bridges across the Mississippi and from then on gradually froze the steamboats out of business. The Davidsons maintained a large shipyard at La Crosse, building packet boats and barges and servicing their line. When packet business began to decline in the early 70's, the handling of log and lumber rafts by boats grew, and La Crosse became the headquarters for the largest fleet of raft boats on the upper river. This business flourished through the end of the 19th century and ended in the early 1900's with the stripping of the pine timber from the St. Croix, Chippewa and Black river valleys.

La Crosse built its first sawmill in 1852 and for nearly 50 years was a sawmill town. The business of logging and lumber was the dominant industry: in fact thirty-three sawmills were in operation at one time or another. Perhaps twelve could be classified as financially sound during a period of years.

Miscellaneous local manufacturing—flour, beer, agriculture implements, foundries and machine shops grew slowly but steadily. New industries came into being rapidly in the period of 1880 - 1900, so that when the sawmills began to close (1898-1903) other local industry was able to absorb the displacement of sawmill hands without any serious setbacks or stagnation. In fact, La Crosse was one of the few sawmill towns on the main river that did not have a serious slump. In the early 1900's La Crosse had three knitting mills, three candy factories, and five breweries.

As mentioned before, the first railroad, the La Crosse & Milwaukee, reached La Crosse in October, 1858, and until the railroad bridge was finished in November, 1876, La Crosse was the terminal and transfer point for passengers and freight bound west or north.

The boats brought huge tows of wheat and other grains here, where it was unloaded from barges into freight cars for shipment to Milwaukee, principally.

The Southern Minnesota Railroad, La Crosse's pet project of the 60's and 70's started to build westward from Hokah, Minnesota, in 1865, aided by $50,000 worth of La Crosse City Bonds, which helped to buy the first rails and equipment. In 1872, La Crosse voted $150,000 aid to this road to help build a bridge across the Mississippi at Mount Vernon Street, La Crosse. The road got into financial difficulties, and the bonds were cancelled by the City.

The Chicago & Northwestern line west from Baraboo reached Winona Junction, four miles east of La Crosse, in the late fall of 1873. No service was extended into the city.

By 1876, the Green Bay & Western Railroad, aided by $75,000 of La Crosse City bonds, built a line from Onalaska south along the eastern edge of the city to a depot on 9th and Green Bay streets running a train over the C. & N.W. tracks from Marshland, Wisconsin to Onalaska. The C. & N.W. then came into the city to the 9th and Green Bay St. depot. In 1885, the C. & N.W. built a direct line from Winona Junction to its depot on 3rd and Vine Streets, which was abandoned a few years ago.

The Burlington built its line into and through the city the same year.

Churches and schools of La Crosse have kept pace with the steady growth of the community. The first organized were the Congregational and Baptist churches, founded in February, 1852. The first Roman Catholic congregation was organized in 1853. The first public school was started in 1853. Today the city has high schools, junior highs, orthopedic schools, grade schools and a state college, plus Catholic and Lutheran parochial grade schools and high schools, St. Viterbo College, and Holy Cross Seminary. The La Crosse Vocational School is known nationally for its vocational training.

Dear Sir:

Mr. DuWayne Johnsrud, 402 North Eighth Street, member of Beta Alpha Epsilon, has requested a letter recommending our campus group to your national organization for charter consideration. I am most happy to present the organization to you. Mr. William Goldsborough is their advisor; he is an outstanding individual and most conscientious. The local organization, in conjunction with Dr. Harvey Ideus, Placement Director, sponsored a most successful Career Day Conference on our campus November 13. More than forty different companies sent representatives and the "feed back" has been most rewarding.

We would be pleased to have Delta Sigma Pi on our campus as a professional fraternity. Our majors in Business Administration number something in excess of 700.

Sincerely,

Dear Sir:

I would like to recommend that our business fraternity, Beta Alpha Epsilon, be permitted to become a part of the national business fraternity. There are undoubtedly many advantages in this affiliation for our students, but I am particularly interested in seeing them develop some kind of identity on this campus.

We have had a business administration program for six or seven years now and during the past semester had something in excess of 500 student majors. This is in reality about one-twelfth of our total enrollment.

It is my impression that the students in the local fraternity have been doing some fine things this past year and I think such an affiliation would be mutually beneficial.

Yours very truly,

Dear Sir:

This letter is written to you for the purpose of recommending the Beta Alpha Epsilon Business Fraternity at Wisconsin State University - La Crosse for membership in the organization you represent.

I have watched the Beta Alpha Epsilon Fraternity here since the planning stages; and in fact, had a hand in its original organization. I believe it to be an enthusiastic organization made up of responsible students who will accept the obligations and responsibilities that go with not only a Business Fraternity but a Business Fraternity affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi.

In this light, I wish to join the petition of the Beta Alpha Epsilon Fraternity in its bid for membership.

Sincerely yours,
