BY
DELTA SIGMA PSI
OF
SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY
EDWARDSVILLE, ILLINOIS

To the Grand Council of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

Gentlemen:

We, the undersigned brothers of the Fraternity of Delta Sigma Psi, hereby earnestly petition for a charter to establish a chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi on the Edwardsville Campus of Southern Illinois University.

Delta Sigma Psi was formed with the hope that some day it might affiliate with Delta Sigma Pi. The present aims, purposes and requirements reflected in our constitution and bylaws were patterned after and commensurate with the same high ideals of Delta Sigma Pi.

In pursuit of this affiliation, the brothers of Delta Sigma Psi pledge to uphold the rules and regulations as set forth in the constitution and bylaws of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi and further to carry out its traditions and programs.

HISTORY OF SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

Southern Illinois University is a multi-purpose and diversified University that, since its establishment in 1869, has sought to meet the educational needs of the times for the people which it serves as a public institution. It is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Though the student population has increased manifold from its beginning, the formation of schools, colleges, divisions, and departments within the University enables the institution to concentrate on the special interests of its individual students. The University in total size now ranks twentieth in the nation. It offers facilities and faculty to give general and professional training to students ranging from two-year programs leading to associate degrees to the doctoral degree level.

Southern Illinois University, with major campuses at Carbondale and Edwardsville, Illinois, is one of the nation's largest Universities in terms of full-time students. The University's student body represents all counties of Illinois, several states and 70 foreign countries. The University is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and has faculty or institutional membership in more than 530 additional associations of a professional nature in higher education.

Because of the growing demand for educational opportunities in the Madison-St. Clair county area, the University established the Alton Residence Center and the East St. Louis Residence Center in 1957, the former on the campus of what used to be Shurtleff College, the latter in a senior high school building.

During the year 1958-59, communities in Madison and St. Clair counties launched a drive that helped acquire a large central campus site on the outskirts of Edwardsville, Illinois, approximately twenty miles east of St. Louis, Missouri. From what was once farm land has now risen a complex of uniquely designed buildings which constitute the Edwardsville campus.

The Edwardsville campus had its beginning in 1949 when the Belleville Residence Center was established. Because of the growing demand for opportunities in higher education in the Madison-St. Clair county area, the University established the Alton and East St. Louis Centers in 1957. In November of 1957, consultants were appointed to investigate possible sites in the Madison-St. Clair county area for a new campus to be constructed. In March, 1958, the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University selected 2600 acres of rolling farm land and wooded valleys along the bluffs flanking the Mississippi River southwest of Edwardsville as the new campus site. Funds contributed by 60,000 area citizens made possible the initial purchase of the desired acreage.

The master plan for the Edwardsville site provided facilities for a daily commuting student body of 18,000. Buildings now occupied in the first phase are Lovejoy Library, Peck Classroom Building, Communications Building, Science Laboratory Building, and the University Center. In the planning or construction stages are buildings for administration, physical education, theatre and fine arts, as well as an office wing on the Science Laboratory Building.

The total number of students presently enrolled at the Edwardsville campus is 10,337; out of this total number the business students number 758.

Dear Sir:

In the Spring of 1968 I was approached by a group of men who wished to organize a professional business fraternity on the Edwardsville Campus. They had already sought and received approval for their organization from Dr. Kenneth Myers, Dean of the Business Division. I was very impressed with their plans and felt confident that they would be successful in achieving their goal. I assured the men that my office would cooperate in any way possible.

After my first meeting with these men I kept in close contact with the group and learned of their decision to seek recognition as a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. In October, 1968, I sent a letter to Mr. Ben Wolfenberger, Executive Secretary of Delta Sigma Pi, indicating that I felt the group was definitely deserving of consideration. My recommendation was based on individual contact with various officers and committee chairmen and my impression of the group as a whole. Since my letter to Mr. Wolfenberger I have found no reason to feel differently concerning my original recommendation. With continued support and encouragement I feel that Delta Sigma Psi can do nothing but continue to grow in size and strength.

We presently have some twenty recognized honorary and professional organizations on the Edwardsville Campus and we would be pleased to add Delta Sigma Pi to that list.

Sincerely,

Thomas P. Romanin

The University Center houses the faculty offices of the Business Division, on the second floor. The Center also houses the Cafeteria, Book Store, and the recreation area for students.

The Peck building is where most of SIU's business classes are held. The building contains experimental classrooms with an elevated "U shaped" desk design. These classrooms promote closer relationships between student and instructor.

HISTORY OF THE BUSINESS DIVISION

The academic program of the Business Division Southern Illinois University, Edwardsville Campus is designed in anticipation of the needs of students who will graduate in the early 1970's and whose business careers may well extend beyond the year 2000. The Business Division feels that knowledge is pouring in so fast that the student must be taught in college to learn easily rather than just receive training in one particular field.

The Business Division was started in 1965, the same year the Edwardsville Campus was opened. At this time the faculty consisted of 40 members including Dr. John Glynn, the first dean of the Business Division. Bachelor of Science Degrees were offered in Economics, Marketing, Management and Accounting; with 410 undergraduates majoring in these fields.

Since 1965 the Business Division has become larger every year, making its facilities better and better. In the 1966-1967 school year Dr. Kenneth Meyers became dean of the Division bringing new and better ideas. An increase in the number of undergraduates majoring in business to 530 made it necessary to increase the faculty to 45.

In the 1967-1968 school year the faculty was increased to 51 members in order to keep up with the ever increasing number of students majoring in business, 648 in the fall quarter. Beginning the fall quarter Dean Meyers initiated a new program for the Business Division. This new program consisted of dividing the Business Division into three broad areas with different degree programs for each. These three areas are Business Administration, Economics and Business Education.

Students who are interested in business administration work toward a Bachelor of Science degree with a concentration in Business Administration. All students take the same general business courses supplemented by a sequence in one of the following specializations: General Accounting, Professional Accounting, General Business Administration, Economics, Finance, Personnel and Industrial Relations, Management Science and Marketing. There are two somewhat different degree programs in Economics offered by the Business Division: the Bachelor of Science degree with a concentration in Economics and a Bachelor of Arts degree with a concentration in Economics. A Bachelor of Science degree is offered by the Business Division; this is supplemented by a concentration in Secretarial and Office Administration.

The Fall Quarter of 1968 found another increase in faculty to 61 in order to instruct the 758 business majors. The Fall of 1968 also found new academic programs in the Business Division. One of these is the Professional Experience Program (PEP). This is a co-op, work study program in which students work for an area company for six months a year in order to learn some of the practical aspects of business. Another program is called Learning through Integrated Faculty-Student Teamwork (LIFT). This program utilizes block scheduling of the first year core courses, making students available from 8:00 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. four days per week. These are only two examples of programs which have already been launched. The Business Division, always looking forward, is preparing other programs of an innovative nature to be put into use.

The new Business Division offices are located on the second floor of the University Center. Dividers and plants give a feeling of privacy when a person is seated, and openness when standing.

DEAN KENNETH H. MYERS

Dean Kenneth H. Myers was born in Sioux City, Iowa. He is married and the father of three children. Dean Myers earned his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Harvard University and his Doctor's degree from Northwestern University in the fields of Economics, Marketing, Industrial Management, and Finance. He has been a professor at Northwestern University, University of Southern California and Dean of the Business Division at Southern Illinois University. His professional society memberships are: Academy of Management, American Economic Association, Business History Association, Economic History Association, and The Institute of Management Sciences.

Gentlemen:

It is with real pleasure that I write to you in regard to Delta Sigma Psi's request for affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi. Knowing what it is to be affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi, I understand that affiliation is no light matter.

However, from the start, the men of Delta Sigma Psi have set a leader's pace. They have engaged in campus-wide events such as Homecoming and a charity drive. They regularly hold dinner meetings at which prominent men in business and academic life speak on matters of current interest.

Among their current projects is a pledge education program that emphatically stresses professional development. Seminars are held for the pledges at which business etiquette, appropriate attire, and methods in office management are thoroughly discussed.

The brothers also take it upon themselves to encourage outstanding scholarship among their pledges and thus provide significant support for our core curriculum.

The brothers of Delta Sigma Psi are all personable young men who have impressive academic records and the respect of their fellow students.

I highly recommend them for affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi.

Fraternally yours,

Kenneth H. Myers
Dean, Business Division

HISTORY OF CHAPTER

Ron Vassel, Mike Klaus and Don Clevenger, three business students at Southern Illinois University first discovered the need of a fraternity to aid the development of brotherhood among business students. The SIU campus was less than five years old and was rapidly expanding. The need for a professional business fraternity was evident.

In May of 1968, an organizational meeting was held and Delta Sigma Psi became a reality. The charter members checked into several professional business fraternities and decided to become affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi. On May 23, the first professional meeting was held at the Flaming Pit Restaurant with Dr. Sokolik as the guest speaker. The rest of the spring quarter consisted of organizing the chapter into an efficient operating group.

The fall quarter began with a dinner meeting with Ben H. Wolfenburger, Executive Secretary, to discuss our plans to pledge to Delta Sigma Pi. Committees were formed to start preparing for the pledge period. Our first pledge program was formed this quarter with 15 interested pledges. The pledge period lasted twelve weeks in which twelve pledges were accepted as members of Delta Sigma Psi. The rest of the quarter was devoted to promoting Delta Sigma Psi's name on campus and to building a stronger program for the members.

STANLEY L. SOKOLIK

Associate Professor, Business Administration
Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville

Dr. Sokolik received the B.S.B.A. and M.B.A. degrees from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. He received his Ph.D. from the Ohio State University. After teaching experiences at Washington University, Wayne State University, and the University of Detroit, as well as performance as Director of Personnel for two retailing companies, Dr. Sokolik joined the faculty of the Business Division of Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville in June, 1967. He served one year as Chairman of the Faculty of Business Administration and is now in the final stages of completing his text, The Personnel Process, which will be published this year by International Textbook Company.

He has had extensive management consulting experience and has written for several management journals. He has participated in and directed the middle-management and executive development programs sponsored by Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville during the past two years. He is a member of Beta Gamma Sigma, the Academy of Management, the Industrial Relations Club of Greater St. Louis, the American Society for Personnel Administration, and Midwest Scanlon Associates.

Gentlemen:

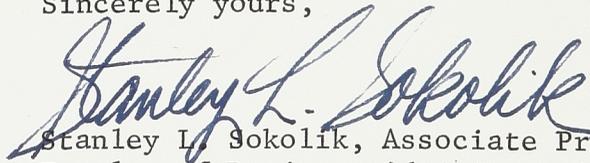

I am most happy to honor the request of Delta Sigma Psi to write to you in regard to their application for affiliation with your national fraternity. Knowing what I do about your purpose and program as well as the concerns of these young men, I anticipate that this step is sure to be of mutual benefit.

Since the inception of Delta Sigma Psi, I have observed what can occur within a short time with enthusiastic and conscientious leadership. Judging this group's potential on our campus only from their past results causes me to be highly optimistic about what they can realize with your guidance and the discipline of your result-oriented program.

I was in on the early discussions about the formation of this group. And, were it not for my busy schedule, I would have accepted their offer to continue in an advisory position. I have had a number of the group's leaders in my classes and find it easy to recommend them as not only sincere students but as likely-to-succeed in whatever career they choose. In making their contribution to the development of Delta Sigma Psi, they have been most anxious to take the advice of myself and my colleagues. All in all, they and the other members of the group have acquitted themselves very well.

As you can see, I have no reservation whatsoever to endorse their application for affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi.

Sincerely yours,

Stanley L. Sokolik, Associate Professor
Faculty of Business Administration
