HISTORY OF DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY

Duquesne is a moderately-sized, urban, Catholic, co-educational University. Founded in 1873 as a Holy Ghost College, it was chartered as a University in 1911. Since its foundation by the Congregation of the Holy Ghost and the Immaculate Heart of Mary, Duquesne has been under the control of this Congregation, generally known as the Holy Ghost Fathers. Top level administrators are still drawn from members of the Congregation, but actually not more than ten per cent of the total faculty and administration are members of the religious community. Although Duquesne is a church-affiliated institution, it is entirely private in nature and draws no funds from the Catholic Church. By virtue of its relationship to the Church the University does not qualify for support from public funds and is, therefore, almost totally dependent upon tuition and private endowments as sources of financial income. According to its charter, "the oversight and management of Duquesne shall be vested in a Board of eleven Directors." These Directors (presently all members of the Congregation of the Holy Ghost) constitute the Trustees of the University. The continuing governing body is the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors. In 1962 a compromise was effected when the President was empowered to organize his advisory board into a separate corporation known as the Duquesne University Foundation. The civic leaders who compromise the Foundation are all laymen and provide the broad-based, varied experiences usually found among University trustees.

Duquesne University is located in the downtown area of Pittsburgh. The campus is typically urban with all the problems inherent in this kind of setting. The Administration and several other buildings are situated on a high bluff overlooking the Monongahela River. The physical aspect has changed drastically within the past few years as the whole area is part of the Urban Renewal Project for the City of Pittsburgh. Enrollment statistics have shown a slight, steady increase over the past decade. The present figure of 7,114 represents the greatest number of students in the history of the institution.

Duquesne offers programs leading to the Bachelor's Degree in Arts, Sciences, Business Administration, Music, Education, Nursing, and Pharmacy. The Master's Degree is offered in Arts, Sciences, Education, Business Administration, Music, and Pharmacy. The Degree of Juris Doctor is granted in the School of Law, and the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy is granted in some areas of Chemistry, English, Philosophy, and Psychology.

HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Courses in Business Administration were established by the University in 1913 under the name School of Accounts and Finance. The rapid growth of the School necessitated a constant broadening of the curriculum until it covered all of the business subjects of fundamental importance. In 1931 the School assumed its present name and, with this change, became a professional school of business administration.

In 1928, the degree of Master of Science in Business Administration was first awarded by Duquesne's Graduate Business School. In the fall of 1957, after extensive planning and development, the School inaugurated its current MBA program in the evening division, which was later supplemented with the day MBA program in September, 1965.

Duquesne first extended the Master of Science degree in Economics in June, 1925. The curriculum has since developed and evolved into the M.A. program in Economics first offered through the evening division of the Graduate Business School during the 1961-62 school year. In the fall of 1966, this program will expand into a day-program also.

The School offers the same curriculum in both the day and evening sessions leading to all degrees.

COURSES OF INSTRUCTION

The School of Business Administration is comprised of three Divisions: Quantitative Science (Accounting, Analytic Methods, Finance); Behavioral Science (Law, Commerce, Management); and Economic Science.

A student entering the School of Business Administration is expected to state to his advisor his career objective along with his academic area of concentration, the latter of which can be several of the junior and senior courses indicated in the three Divisions. The student's proposed curriculum must, of course, include the University requirements and Business Administration Core requirements as indicated in the catalog issued for the School of Business Administration. The total of these requirements makes up 88 hours of the 128 hours required for graduation. Consistent with his stated career objective and with the concurrence of his advisor, the student is free to select any junior and senior courses from the School of Business Administration curriculum to complete the 15 hours, plus any nine credits offered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, required for graduation. The single exception to this is the student who selects Accounting as his area of concentration. The regulations for certification in Accounting make this program very rigid.

The faculty advisor in the School of Business Administration plays an extremely important role in the academic guidance of each student. Because of this, each student is permitted to select his own advisor based on personal knowledge and available biographical sketches.

HISTORY OF DELTA BETA ALPHA

In the fall semester of 1969 a group of interested Business students first explored the possibilities of organizing a professional business fraternity at Duquesne University. There seemed to be sufficient interest among the Business students to form a professional fraternity. This arose from the fact that the only other business fraternities on campus were honorary, and they were not at all active in professional and social activities.

Delta Sigma Pi was recommended by the Dean of the School of Business Administration, James L. Hayes, who is an alumnus of the fraternity. Dean Hayes contacted Delta Sigma Pi's Executive Director, Charles L. Farrar, and communicated the group's interest in forming a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Duquesne University. Mr. Farrar and also a local Delta Sigma Pi alumnus, Herb Finney, spoke to the group about the requirements, responsibilities, and benefits of forming a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. A general meeting of all interested Business students was called at this time, and there was an encouraging turnout. At this point the local fraternity, Delta Beta Alpha, came into existence as a formal organization. Since the formation of this fraternity, an extensive program of business activities coupled with a limited social calendar has been initiated.

Dear Mr. Dunhoff:

I sincerely appreciate your letter of October 30 and am pleased to learn that you and a group of your fellow students are interested in organizing a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on your campus. Dean Hayes also called me last week to determine if we were interested in establishing a chapter of our fraternity on your campus and what should be done to accomplish this.

I am, as you requested, sending to you today under separate cover a portfolio containing a number of our publications which will help to better acquaint you with our fraternity, its aims and objectives. I hope that you will be able to share it with the other members of your organization.

I wish that I could promise you now that we would be able to visit your campus in the next few weeks to discuss this matter with you. Unfortunately, our travel schedules this fall have been in a constant state of change due to other installations and pledging ceremonies. Possibly sometime before Christmas we could visit your campus to discuss this matter with you and your fellow students. Ordinarily we could meet with you during the day or evening, whichever would be most convenient. In order that we can try and work in a visit to your campus, on what day of the week and at what time would it be best to plan such a visit?

Mr. David Dunhoff
November 5, 1969

In the meantime, I believe that our publications will help you in getting a local fraternity organized and operating on campus. I also believe that our suggested bylaws will help you in drafting bylaws for submission to the university administration when seeking approval as a recognized fraternity on campus. We have expressed an interest in the possibility of having a chapter of our fraternity on your campus for many years and have been waiting for just such an opportunity. If we can assist you in making this a reality, we certainly want to do so. All you need do is to let us know what we can do to assist you.

Sincerely yours,

Executive Director

Dear Mr. Dlugos:

It was certainly a pleasure for Herb Finney and me to visit with you and the other members of Delta Beta Alpha last Wednesday. We sincerely appreciated the opportunity of meeting all of you and being able to discuss with you your desire to affiliate with Delta Sigma Pi.

As promised, I reviewed your bylaws and made a number of suggestions which I think will be most helpful to you when submitting your bylaws to those committees of the university which must approve student organizations. I trust that you had no difficulty in picking them up at the William Penn Hotel.

Also, I am, herewith, enclosing a copy of our booklet, "$$$ Projects," which you may find useful in helping your fraternity raise the necessary funds to pay your charter fee.

We are certainly most interested in helping you with your plans to affiliate with Delta Sigma Pi and trust that you will not hesitate to call on us when we can be of assistance to you.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Dunhoff:

In reply to your letter of January 22, it is most desirable that your chapter advisor be a member of the fraternity. Since it is highly unlikely that there are too many members of our fraternity on the staff at Duquesne University, you may wish to choose a faculty member as your advisor and he can be initiated at the same time that you are. If the advisor is to attend your chapter meetings and initiations he must be a member, as I doubt sincerely that you would want to have someone who is not a member of the fraternity attending these meetings.

The chapter advisor's role is exactly the same as his name implies--a member of the faculty who is able to advise the chapter regarding matters of university rules and policy of which the undergraduates may not be aware. Further, his maturity, education and experience should also be helpful to you.

I trust that this answers your question; however, if you need additional information, please let us know.

Several weeks have now passed since I visited with you. What progress have you made and what are your immediate plans for the future?

Sincerely yours,

Dear Alan:

Confirming our telephone conversation this afternoon, we have today mailed to you, under separate cover, 40 pledge manuals for the members of Delta Beta Alpha. Enclosed you will also find a copy of our booklet "Installation Information, which should help to acquaint you with the program and arrangements necessary for your installation banquet. Ordinarily, the initiation is conducted during the afternoon with the banquet following early in the evening. Because of our extremely heavy schedule between now and June 6, the only date on which we can possibly consider an installation at Duquesne would be Saturday, May 23.

I trust from what you told me that you can complete your petition and get it to us in the next week or ten days. Would you also let me know by return mail when it would be convenient for you to hold the pledging ceremony, which lasts about one half hour? It is very unlikely that anyone from The Central Office will be able to conduct this ceremony, but, hopefully, we can make arrangements with Brother Herb Finney and members of Lambda Chapter and the Pittsburgh Alumni Club to conduct the pledging ceremony for you.

I am sure that many questions will arise concerning your pledging and initiation into Delta Sigma Pi. If so, please do not hesitate to get in touch with us.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Farrar:

I have been asked to give you my attitude concerning the organization of a Duquesne University chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

I would welcome the formation of such a chapter because it would satisfy several identifiable deficiencies in student life in the School of Business Administration. This would be accomplished by the increased social intercourse among the students of the School of Business Administration, the opportunity for other than honor students to become affiliated with a business fraternity, and the opportunity for Duquesne University students to act with students from other chapters of an international fraternity.

I have given and continue to give my support to this effort on the part of our students.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Farrar:

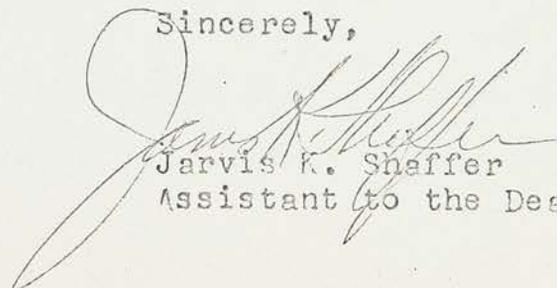

I am writing this on behalf of the many students in the School of Business Administration at Duquesne University who are interested in establishing closer liaison with the very vigorous local industrial community. They hope to be able to better accomplish this goal by gaining membership in Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity.

The students interested in this movement are keenly aware of the existing gulf between the classroom and the world of industry. They are earnestly striving to close that gap and feel that membership in this professional fraternity with its accompanying prestige would do much towards accomplishing just that.

The local Alumni Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi has many significant members in the upper echelons of such local organization headquarters as Gulf Oil, Westinghouse, Alcoa and others.

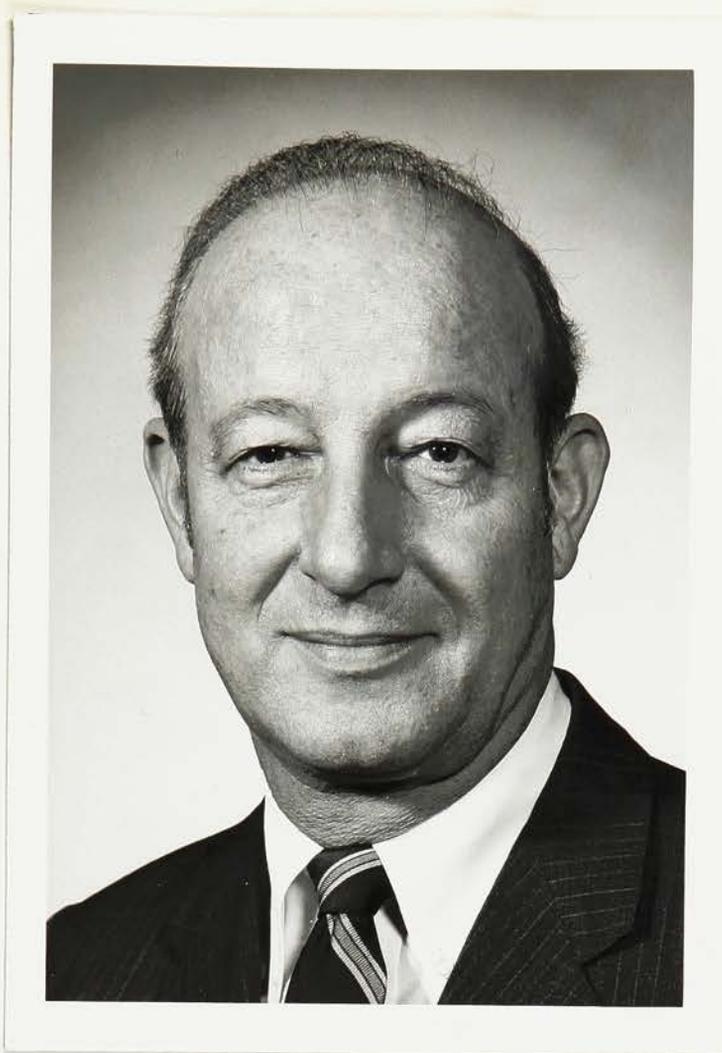

I feel that a Chapter located at this university would make a fine contribution towards your national efforts.

Sincerely,

Jarvis K. Shaffer
